Correspondents of Paris Journals Quote Teddy in Disturbing Way.

MAKE HIM DO DEAL OF TALL BRAGGING

Ex-President Put in Light of Great-I-Am by the French Writers.

Paris, April 6.—The French press is displaying great interest and curiosity in Theodore Roosevelt.

"When the Caesar of modern democracy goes hunting, Europe, Asia, Africa and America climb to their windows and watch the caravan of publicity pass," is the way one of the papers describes Mr. Roosevelt's journey to East Africa.

A majority of the French correspondents sent to Naples to chronicle their impressions of Mr. Roosevelt say the former president of the United States is absorbed in himself. They describe his cabin as filled with his books and littered with photographs of himself and the members of his family. They say the only object not relating to Mr. Roosevelt himself in his cabin was a photograph of Emperor William bearing the imperial signature in green ink.

Say He "Preached."

Mr. Roosevelt talked freely, but principally about himself and his work, the correspondents say, and he manifested a disposition to "preach." In his conversation he touched upon his Knickerbocker ancestry and his experiences as a ranchman in the far west. Turning to politics he said he had been elected to the presidency as a representative of honesty against the power of gold. "I have always maintained that probity in private life is indispensable to public life," Mr. Roosevelt is quoted as saying. "I have fought the oil kings and the steel emperors; but my back is still intact. The truth is, they showed less resistance than I expected. The feudal barons of modern finance have less energy than the feudal lords of ancient Europe."

Continuing, Mr. Roosevelt referred to his pride in the American navy and army.

"By preparing for war," the former president is quoted as having said, "I was able to calm the impetuosity of Young America against Japan."

More Powerful Than Monarch.

Mr. Roosevelt is further quoted as having said that as the president of the United States he was more powerful than any constitutional monarch of Europe. He pointed out, the French correspondents aver, that he possessed the power of veto, that he appointed the entire diplomatic corps and the high governmental functionaries, and that he was a maker of treaties with only the consent of those he characterized as the "National Regulators." He said that for two years, while president, he spent his time in fighting the trusts and that he rejoiced he had left behind an America where the only king will be the state. "The machinery of state will now roll on without me," Mr. Roosevelt is quoted as saying, "but with the impetus I have given, Mr. Taft, my good successor, will build the Panama canal, continue to increase the army and navy, and check the trusts if they again become too obnoxious."

Tribute to the Press.

Mr. Roosevelt paid a high tribute to journalism. He said he would have accomplished nothing when he entered politics without the press. As a journalist himself he had fought the Utopias of Tolstoy and the excesses of the revolutionary propaganda. "Newspapers and books are instruments of action for me," Mr. Roosevelt declared. "Journalism should not be content to sell what the public wants to buy; it should raise and not lower the public taste."

HOOSIER NOW HEAD ON ROCK ISLAND ROSTER

Attorney R. A. Jackson
Succeeds Robert Mather
as President.

New York, April 6.—R. A. Jackson, of Chicago, was today elected president of the Rock Island company, to succeed Robert Mather, who resigned to become chairman of the board of directors of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

Mr. Jackson became connected with the Rock Island system in 1901, when he was appointed general attorney. After holding this position for three years he was elected first vice president and general counsel.

Mr. Jackson was born in Richmond, Ind., in 1858. He was educated in the public schools there and at Earlham college. In 1879 he was graduated from the University of Virginia with the degree of LL. B. He was admitted to the bar in 1880 and practiced law until he became connected with the Rock Island road. He is at present in Europe.

FREE LUMBER IS GIVEN BLACK EYE

House Gives Tawney
Amendment a Swipe
Between the Optics.

FORDNEY GETS IN HIS AMENDMENT

A Few Democrats Against the Proposition for Free Lumber.

Washington, April 6.—The house overwhelmingly adopted the Fordney amendment to the Payne tariff bill, striking out the provision for a countervailing duty on lumber.

The Tawney amendment to reduce the duty on all lumber included in paragraph 197 of the bill, except finished lumber, was lost on division, 151 to 173, party alignments being badly broken. A vote by tellers on his demand also resulted in its being lost, 170 to 176.

Mr. Fordney said Mr. Tawney once was a protectionist, but he was a free trader on lumber today. Amid applause Mr. Clark, of Missouri, announced himself for the Tawney amendment.

Democrats Opposed to It.

Messrs. Pou, democrat, of North Carolina, and Cushman, republican, opposed the amendment.

Mr. Clark admitted he was trying to do the best possible for his district. Messrs. Fassett, of New York; Kamsdell, of Louisiana, and Sawyer, of Maine, opposed the Tawney amendment, and Messrs. Reeder, of Kansas, and Snyder, of Texas, supported it. The Tawney amendment was then lost on division and on vote by tellers.

A motion by Mr. Clark, of Missouri, to strike out all of paragraph 197 of the lumber schedule also was defeated, 113 to 167. Further amendments by Mr. Fordney adding to the free list the lumber described in paragraph 196 were likewise lost.

Fordney Had Precedence.

The chair ruled that other amendments could be offered but that the committee amendment offered by Mr. Fordney had precedence. The situation again became clouded by the offering of a sub-amendment by Mr. Clark, who desired to speak to it, but the chair ruled that Mr. Fordney was entitled to the floor. Mr. Fordney said he introduced his amendment with great regret, as the provision it sought to strike out was a meritorious one. "I am offering the amendment," he declared, "and will vote for it, but it causes me to sweat blood in doing so."

The Clark substitute, which was then read, provided for amending several sections by placing lumber on the free list.

Mr. Tawney contended that two paragraphs could not be covered in one amendment and offered an entire substitute for the lumber schedule, modifying but retaining the duty.

The chair ruled that the Fordney amendment had precedence.

Chairman Payne's warning to those who opposed the lumber provision of the bill reported will be recalled when Representative Tawney, of Minnesota, presents a resolution today seeking to place lumber on the free list. A very close contest is expected to follow. Mr. Fordney's motion will be acted upon first unless Mr. Tawney offers his amendment as an amendment to Mr. Fordney's.

To Amend Hides Schedule.

The amendment to the paragraph on hides will be offered by Representative Scott, of Kansas. The amendment to the paragraph on hides will restore the phraseology of the Dingley law and provide for a duty of 10 per cent ad valorem. The rate in the present law is 15 per cent. A close vote is expected, but with the assistance of a few democratic votes those who are urging the change claim they can carry the amendment. Should it fail of adoption it is probable an amendment making the duty 5 per cent will be offered. The Payne bill places hides on the free list.

The effort to have a duty of 25 per cent on barley and to restore the Dingley rate of 45 cents per bushel on barley malt will be shaped into an amendment which will be offered by Representative Miller, of Kansas.

The amendment to the oil schedule will be put to the committee by the chairman. It provides that the countervailing duty shall be stricken out and a duty of 25 per centum ad valorem on crude and refined petroleum substituted.

This rate will make the average duty on refined petroleum one cent per gallon and about one-half a cent on the crude. The present provision makes the rates average between four and six cents per gallon.

Wrangle Over Rule's Meaning.

After convening the house today took up the tariff bill for amendment under the order adopted yesterday. When adjournment was taken last evening there was pending the Fordney amendment from the committee on ways and means, striking out the provision for the countervailing duty on lumber. A parliamentary snarl at once was encountered as to whether or not other amendments would be permitted under the rule adopted yesterday. The point was raised by Mr. Clark, of Missouri, the minority leader. A number of members were immediately on their feet endeavoring to put their construction on the rule and to allay the impending excitement, the chair had the rule read for information. Messrs. Fitzgerald, of New York, and Dalzell, of Pennsylvania, both on the committee on rules, contended that individual amendment under the rule could be offered. The republican members of the ways and means committee met to consider further amendments to the Payne bill. The duties on pig and scrap iron, and

TORNADO CUTS A SWATH IN ILLINOIS

Two Killed and Much Property Damaged in the Vicinity of Marion.

PITTSBURG SCENE OF THE DEATHS

Business Section of Marion Partially Razed by the Wind's Wrath.

Marion, Ill., April 6.—Two persons were killed, many more injured, and considerable property was damaged by a tornado which struck this city and its vicinity early today. The deaths occurred in Pittsburg, a village six miles northeast of here, the victims being crushed by the collapse of their home. So far as can be learned these were the only fatalities. The storm came from the southwest and was accompanied by a heavy rain. It was 5:30 o'clock when the "twister" struck here and few persons were on the streets. In the business section, several store buildings were partly demolished, and in the residence section many of the small homes occupied by miners and their families, were unroofed.

As the storm passed across the country it ripped open barns and other farm buildings. In Pittsburg, Ill., flying debris wrecked store fronts and uprooted trees, crashed upon dwellings, one of which collapsed and caused the two deaths. The monetary loss is estimated at $150,000.

In Marion the Edwards mill was unroofed, the ice plant damaged and the A. F. White business college, Marion State and Trust bank, Holiday Grocery building and a number of offices were partly blown down. The African Methodist church was also wrecked and the Methodist church school, Copeland green house, A. H. Joseph clothing company and W. H. Bundy's drug store were badly damaged. At Pittsburg the Methodist church was blown down.

LOVE CROSSES PUT A PRETTY WOMAN TO THE BAD

Ethel Shaw Ends Life in Albany, N. Y., Hotel—
Heart Broken.

Albany, N. Y., April 6.—Disappointed in love, Ethel C. Shaw, an attractive woman about 28 years old, was found dead in her room in the Ten Eyck hotel this morning. Death was due to an overdose of morphine and strychnine taken hypodermically. Miss Shaw was a nurse from New York city. She has a brother living in Montreal.

The woman left several letters, including one addressed to Dr. G. Scott Towne, health officer of Saratoga, in which she said:

"My Dear Boy: Unfortunately I have not very fond of you, so breaking of our engagement means to me complete wreck and ruin. Don't get any other girl to love you."

"Yours, Ethel C. S."

The postscript read:

"No mother has a right to spoil a son's life. When two people marry they should be given a chance. Every woman knows this."

J. E. McFarland returned to the Ohio State university at Columbus today after a visit of several days with his parents.

CHICAGO HAVING A HOT TIME WITH ELECTIONS

Lively Interest in Spring Contest for Places in City Government.

Chicago, April 6.—Between 6 o'clock this morning and 4 o'clock this afternoon Chicago will pass on the rival candidates for city treasurer and city clerk, the personnel of more than one-half of the city council and upon the advisability of a tax levy for the establishment of a tuberculosis sanitarium. As side issues the city will have its say concerning the adoption of Evans-ton and Cicero as integral parts of the municipality.

The last hours of the campaign were full of the freerackery developments which have added excitement to the off-year contest. The Municipal Voters League sent out a final bulletin of warning to the effect that stay-at-home voters today might turn back at the city council to the gray wolves and the discredited element. The Third ward politicians are stripped for the most bitter political fight the ward has known for years. The prediction is made by the party chiefs that nearly 75 per cent of the registered vote of 406,000 will be cast. In four wards a big slump in the vote is due because today is the Jewish passover and Orthodox Jews refuse to mark their ballots. Thousands of votes will be lost to the "little ballot" because of the passover.

DENVER ELECTIONS.

Denver, Col., April 6.—Municipal elections, in many of which the liquor question is the leading issue, are being held today throughout Colorado. Colorado Springs, Grand Junction, Cripple Creek, Trinidad and Boulder will decide the question of saloons or no saloons.

VOTING IN KANSAS.

Kansas City, Mo., April 6.—Municipal elections are being held in a number of cities in Kansas today. A complete ticket, including a mayor and councilmen, is to be elected in Kansas City, Kan., where the campaign has been a spirited one.

ST. LOUIS ELECTION.

St. Louis, Mo., April 6.—With the prospect of ideal weather, voters stood in line waiting to vote at 6 o'clock this morning for a new set of municipal officers. William G. Woerner is the democratic nominee for mayor and Frederick H. Kreisemann the republican nominee.

LIQUOR IS NEBRASKA ISSUE.

Lincoln, Neb., April 6.—The liquor question is the chief issue in the municipal elections which are being held throughout the state today.

KICKED BY FAMILY HORSE.

Eight-Year-Old Packerton, Ind., Girl Has Jaw Broken in Three Places.

Eight-year-old Joia Finton, a daughter of prominent Packerton, Ind., people, is lying at the Hope hospital suffering from severe injuries about her face sustained when kicked yesterday by the family horse, which she was untying at the time. Her lower jaw is broken in three places and she is also badly bruised about other parts of the face. Her condition is said not to be serious but the child's sufferings are pitiful.

MODJESKA STILL ALIVE.

Los Angeles, April 6.—Mme. Helen Modjeska survived the night, contrary to the expectations of the attending physicians, and was reported as barely alive this morning.

CASTRO IS BARRED FROM TRINIDAD

British Government Will Not Permit Him to Land There.

UNCLE SAM TOOK THE INITIATIVE

Requested Britain to Bar
the Trouble Breeder from That Port.

Port of Spain, April 6.—At the urgent request of the state department at Washington communicated to the London foreign office, the British government has decided not to permit Cipriano Castro, former president of Venezuela, to land at Trinidad.

Cipriano Castro is returning to the West Indies from Europe with the avowed purpose of recovering the presidency of Venezuela. He left France March 26, on board the steamer Guadeloups. Where he purposes to land in the West Indies is not definitely known. His original intention was to leave the steamer at La Guaira, the port of Caracas, but the Venezuelan government at first refused its permission. Subsequently this refusal was withdrawn and it was intimated that Castro could land on Venezuelan soil but at his own peril. It was then said that Castro would leave the Guadeloups at Trinidad to await developments and watch his opportunity from that port. It was also said that he might continue on to Colon for the same purpose.

The Guadeloups is due at Trinidad April 10 and at Colon April 15. The latest advice from Caracas intimated that Juan Vioque Gomez, the president of Venezuela, contemplated resigning in favor of one of the vice presidents of the republic.

ACCORDING TO UNDERSTANDING

Washington, April 6.—The news that the British government has decided not to permit Castro to land at Trinidad is in conformity with the understanding of the state department. It is said here that prior to the exchange of views of the several powers interested in maintaining order in Venezuela, Great Britain had shown a disposition not to allow Castro to interfere with the conditions established after his visit to Europe.

CASTRO KEEPS TO THE SHIP.

Pointe A Pitre, Guadeloups, April 6.—The steamer Guadeloups with Cipriano Castro, former president of Venezuela aboard, arrived here today from France. She will stay in port over night and continue on her way tomorrow. Her next stopping place is Basse, Terre, Guadeloupe. Senator Castro did not come ashore here.

ADVANCE IN DIVIDEND.

Tri-State Loan and Trust Company Has Best Half Year in History.

Directors of the Tri-State Loan and Trust company at a meeting Monday afternoon declared a semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent, an advance of 1 per cent over any previous semi-annual dividend.

President C. A. Wilding, of the Tri-State, said today that his company had enjoyed in the past six months the largest earnings in any similar period in its history.

GOVERNOR MARSHALL'S TRIP.

Indianapolis, April 6.—Governor Marshall announced today that he will leave for New York Thursday night instead of Saturday, as he had previously planned. He will address the National Democratic club in that city April 13, after which he will go to Washington to attend a dinner given by the Grid-iron club.

CASSERT DENIED LIQUOR LICENSE

Board Takes Step Under Ruling Made by Judge
O'Rourke.

TWO APPLICANTS QUIT THE FIGHT

Rolling Mills Case is Taken Under Advice-
ment.

The county commissioners today refused to grant a saloon license to Nick Cassert, whose place on Hoagland avenue and Mellia street was pronounced bad by the police and he was the first victim under the new ruling by Judge Edward O'Rourke, who recently held that the board has the right to summon and hear witnesses if its members have any reason to believe that applicants are not fit to hold licenses.

It was shown that in the last couple of years Cassert had been convicted five times of offenses in the city court and Lieutenant Henry Zapp, Chief of Police, Ankenbruck and Detective Charles Leuz swore that his general reputation is bad. President John Wyss, of the board, announced after a consultation with the other members that the charges had been sustained and the license would be refused.

The commissioners proceeded on their own account in the matter and kept the matter quiet until they had Cassert lined up. Hereafter they have been under the impression that they were bound by witnesses produced by the applicants until Judge O'Rourke took a different view of the matter in the case of Space Petro, which was appealed to him.

Busy Day for Board.

The hearing in the remonstrance against Adolph King, of the rolling mills district, occupied all of the forenoon and part of the afternoon and at the conclusion of the evidence and arguments the case was taken under advisement until tomorrow morning. Witnesses were introduced who testified that he is a man of bad reputation and not fit to have a license. It was also shown that there was a woman behind the bar in the place and there was some doubt as to whether or not it was King's wife.

Then the Zack Holzen case was called up and after a consultation he withdrew his application for a license and stopped another long hearing of the remonstrance against him. Dan Zosim then fell into line and also withdrew. The county commissioners have been trying for some time to close up the rolling mills saloons, all of which have been troublesome to the peace officers, and a fight among the proprietors has served the purpose better than anything else.

HOT TIMES ARE ON IN TWO INDIANA COUNTIES

Cass and Blackford Voting on Liquor Issue—Wets Claim Victory.

Logansport, Ind., April 6.—The option fight in Cass county is being carried right up to the polls. City church bells were rung at 5:30 o'clock this morning, awakening the citizens of Logansport. And even though the farmers were up an hour earlier every little church throughout rural Cass, tolled its bell, announcing the election. From the first peal of the bells, Cass county has been a hive of activity. Those who were out until long after midnight closing up the hottest campaign in the history of Cass, were today plunged into the fray, working to get out the votes.

Rain has been falling heavily since early morning. The "wets" were happy, believing that the rain helped their cause. The vote in the country will be increased rather than lessened, as the rain stopped the plowing and farmers flocked to the polling places.

VOTED IN A DOWNPOUR.

Hartford, City, Ind., April 6.—The polls in the local option election in Blackford county opened during a downpour of rain. Both the "wets" and the "drys" were on hand long before 6 o'clock, eager for the contest. In addition to a large number of rigs, two big touring cars from Muncie are being used by the "wets." The farmer vote is out almost to a man.

Each hour the church bells were rung, both here and at Montpelier. At Montpelier the wets fired anvils and cannons to mark the hours along with the bells. Men are stationed with tickets for a meal at any restaurant or the Columbia hotel. These are given to all persons who are seen to approach the women's coffee stands.

The "wets" are still claiming victory and rely on their poll, which shows a majority for saloons. The temperance people, however, are also claiming.

The "dry" leaders are admittedly relying largely on the result in other counties and say that the same silent vote that cut such a figure in every

GIVE LOWER RATE TO ROBISON PARK

Traction Company Leases
Resort and Makes Fare Reduction.

TWO ROUND TRIPS AT 25 CENTS NOW

Proctor - Bulger - Franklin Company to Operate Park on Clean Plans.

Making at the same time a big reduction in the rate of fare to Robison park, the Fort Wayne and Wabash Valley Traction company this afternoon announced the closing of a lease under which the Proctor-Bulger-Franklin Amusement company will operate the pretty pleasure resort this season.

Under the new rate of fare to prevail, tickets good for two round trips from any part of the city to the park will be sold at 25 cents. Heretofore the rate of fare for similar trips has been 40 cents. This means that the single fare to the park will in the future be at the rate of 6 1/4 cents, instead of 10 cents, as has been the prevailing rate since the park was opened to the public a dozen or more years ago.

Another feature of the lease is the stipulation that the park will be conducted, as always, upon a high plane, and that no indecentities will be permitted there. "We are going to operate Robison park in a clean, up-to-date manner, without objectionable features of any kind," said Mr. Proctor, the head of the syndicate, this afternoon, "and we shall seek to appeal to the mass of the people, for we want them to enjoy the park."

Experienced Park Men.

The leasing company is composed of Messrs. W. S. Proctor, Corliss Bulger and C. W. Franklin, of Viroqua, Wis., all of them experienced park men who have been connected with summer park business in various parts of the country. They are young, energetic business men who declare that they are favorably impressed with Fort Wayne and that the park is one of the very prettiest they have ever seen. All three will be actively identified with the conduct of Robison park during the season, and will bring their families to Fort Wayne.

"We shall at once arrange to install new amusement devices and new riding devices at the park," said Mr. Bulger, "and we hope to present sufficient added features to make the park more attractive in every way than it has ever been before. We are gratified at the lower rate of fare given by the traction company and feel confident that the people of Fort Wayne will show their appreciation by a more liberal patronage than the park has ever before enjoyed." Present concession contracts of the park will be carried out intact by the new lessees, and the season's opening will be about the usual date—the latter part of May.

Will Issue Special Ticket.

Auditor H. E. Vordermark will devise a special park ticket, to be on sale by all conductors, under which patrons may take advantage of the reduced fare to and from Robison park. Each ticket will contain four coupons, good for two round trips, and the tickets will sell for 25 cents. The tickets may be used by one person for two round trips, by two persons traveling together for a round trip or by four persons for a trip one way. Officials of the company say they were extremely hesitant in making the reduction, because it was felt that it would mean a marked decrease in park revenues, but the experiment will give the public an opportunity to demonstrate the assertion often made that a lower fare would mean largely increased park travel.

CAR ON INCLINE IS DUMPED TO THE BOTTOM

Two Boys Killed and Several Persons Hurt in Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 6.—Two boys were killed and six other persons injured, several seriously, early today, when a car on the St. Clair incline, running from Josephina street, south side, to Mount Oliver, broke away about the center of the incline and plunged to the bottom.

The dead:

OLDEST FISHER FALLS IN CANAL.

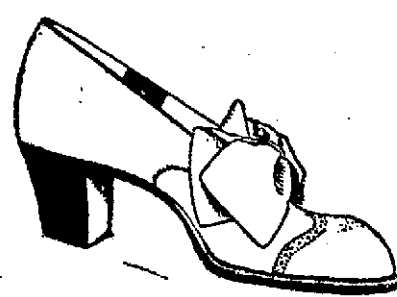

Ninety-Nine-Year-Old Devotee of Line and Rod Has Narrow Escape.

Columbus, O., April 6.—Old "Billy" Myers, who ran off from the infirmary here last Friday and tramped to Buckeye lake, a distance of forty miles, because the nice weather started his fishing blood, fell into the canal there Sunday and came near drowning. An officer of the infirmary left today to bring him back and he will be given some worms and a fishing pole and allowed to fish in the Scioto river under the watchful eye of a guide. "Uncle Billy" is 99 years old and said to be the oldest fisherman in the United States. He was born in Maryland and every spring has to be watched because he invariably runs off to fish.

SHERIFFS MUST NOT GET JURORS IN COURT

Panels Are to Be Filled from Wheel After Next Saturday

When Judge O. N. Heaton's jury reported in the superior court today he found about half of the members were farmers who are extremely busy with their work and who begged to be excused, and most of them were let go and orders issued to the clerk to draw a new jury from the wheel at the end of the present week.

A new law that will become effective with the governor's proclamation next Saturday will deal a severe blow to professional jurors. It provides that the deputy sheriffs can not fill panels from among the spectators in the court rooms, but must go out and get active and good men, which shuts out a coterie that has made most of its living for the last decade by loafing in the court house corridors when court was not in session and sitting with lightning rods up when juries were being selected.

This will meet the hearty approval of the lawyers, who have been handicapped by these fellows. They were afraid to challenge them because they were fearful that they would stack up against them some time when they could not get rid of them and they have frequently been retained for this reason.

Damage Case on Trial.

The damage suit of Walter Miller against Fred Gombert, which has been in the courts in different forms for the last four or five years, went to trial this morning before Judge Edward O'Rourke. Miller was arrested for passing a forged check and Gombert filed an affidavit against him. Then a few days afterward a young fellow named Boyer was arrested and it was shown that he was the real offender. Miller was let go.

Before his release, however, evidence had been introduced against him in a preliminary hearing in the city court and he had been held to the circuit court. Five witnesses swore that he had offered them or passed forged checks on them.

Court Notes.

Della Ransbottom has filed suit against Frederick Ransbottom, alleging that he deserted her and their child last December and asking $10 a week for support. He is a plasterer by trade and the child is eleven months old.

The damage suit of Nelson Hoffman against Edward White was placed on trial before a jury in the superior court.

The will of Joseph Bollinger, of Lafayette township, was probated in the circuit court today and the estate is left to his widow, Barbara Bollinger.

THE DEATHS.

FISCHER.

Jobst Fischer, who was for many years in business at New Haven, died Saturday from tuberculosis at his home in Humboldt, Kan., at the age of 63 years.

Mr. Fischer was a native of Bavaria, but came to America at an early age, and in 1866 was united in marriage to Miss Margaret Wagner. The wife and a daughter survive. The family moved to Kansas five years ago.

The remains arrived in New Haven Tuesday and were taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bowers. Funeral services Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence and later from Emanuel Lutheran church at New Haven.

LOQUE.

Mrs. Mary P. Logue, 77 years of age, died early Tuesday morning at the home of her son, Frank Logue, 824 West Williams street. Mrs. Logue was a resident of Elma Green, this state, until four months ago when she came to this city. Two sons—Frank and William Logue, survive.

After brief funeral services Wednesday morning the remains were taken to Elma Green for further funeral services and interment.

FUNERAL NOTICES.

Davis.—Funeral services of Charles A. Davis, who died at Glendale, O., will be held Thursday afternoon from the home of a sister, Mrs. M. C. Robinson, 1410 Clinton street.

Marco.—Funeral services of George Marco will be held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock from the Schone undertaking rooms, conducted by a priest of the Greek church from Indianapolis.

END OF THE CONFERENCE.

North Indiana Methodists Endorse County Local Option.

Greenfield, Ind., April 6.—The sixtieth annual session of the North Indiana M. E. conference adjourned Monday afternoon after the appointments had been read and reported.

The resolutions endorsed county local option and deplored the passage of the Sunday base ball bill at the last session of the legislature.

The statistician's report showed that there were 476 Sunday schools, a gain of ten; total membership in the Sunday schools, 50,238, an increase of 122; total church membership, 62,394, an increase of 2,373; 212 local preachers, an increase of 12; 491 churches with a total property value of $2,744,200, an increase of $71,100.

Special appointments made were: T. J. Johnson, general secretary of Preachers' Aid society; member of High Street (Muncie) quarterly conference.

E. W. Halpenny, general secretary state Sunday school association.

F. M. Stone, endowment secretary of the American university.

KELLOGG ENDS HIS STANDARD OIL ARGUMENT

Special Attorney Morrison Then Takes Up the Government's Case.

St. Louis, April 6.—Government Attorney Kellogg, before opening his argument in the government's suit to dissolve the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, stated with great positiveness that he would complete his preliminary address by noon and that his associate, C. B. Morrison, of Chicago, would therefore complete the government's opening today. He only asked five hours, he added, to close his side of the case. He thought, therefore, that the intervening two days before Saturday, would be sufficient for the defense and the arguments could be concluded by Saturday evening.

They Only Smiled.

Lawyers Milburn, Rosenthal, Johnson and Watson, merely smiled when asked if their arguments could be completed in that time.

"I guess we will make arrangements to be here a few days next week," said Mr. Milburn.

Mr. Kellogg resumed his discussion of the law points applicable, according to his contention to a proper interpretation of the Sherman act. The crux of his argument was that the original twenty companies involved in the trust agreement of 1879 and 1882 were at that time competitive and illegal under the then existing common law, the trust was therefore void.

The same conspiracy to monopolize and restrain commerce had existed continuously until the present day, bringing the defendants well within the purview of the Sherman law, he insisted.

Railway Discriminations.

Discussing the government's allegations of railway discriminations made in favor of the defendant and its continued use of rates not filed with the interstate commerce commission, Mr. Kellogg said:

"The testimony plainly shows that many of the unfilled and unpublished rules used by the Standard Oil company in the transportation of petroleum were in clear violation of the Sherman act, as well as discriminatory against its competitors."

The attorney also charged that the defendants had used intra-state rates, neither filed nor published as interstate rates, in plain violation of the old interstate commerce act. In supporting this position, the government attorney quoted at length from the interstate commerce act and the later Hepburn law.

Cites Indiana Cases.

Mr. Kellogg touched upon the alleged abuse of rates between Whiting and Evansville, Indiana, via Illinois, stating the shipments were clearly interstate and the tariffs should be filed.

As a final proposition of law, Mr. Kellogg stated that "if the court finds this combination to be in restraint of trade and a monopoly, it has not only the power to enforce the terms and provisions of the Sherman law."

A score or more decisions were cited supporting this contention.

Mr. Kellogg completed his opening argument just before noon and former United States District Attorney Morrison, of Chicago, took up the thread of the government's charges, dwelling especially on the alleged unfair competition.

HOT TIMES ARE ON IN TWO INDIANA COUNTIES.

county but Wayne will be in evidence here.

The "wets" figure on 200 majority in Licking township, in which Hartford City is situated, and 150 in Harrison township, in which Montpelier is located, and that Jackson and Washington townships will offset each other or at best not give more than 100 "dry."

The "wet" poll, carefully made under the direction of experienced politicians, shows a "wet" majority of more than 600, but the leaders discount that 50 per cent and offer safe conservative estimates of others who have not taken such an active part in the campaign, but are well posted, is that the majority either way will not be over 100 and that the sentiment is so evenly divided that any small untoward thing may turn the tide one way or the other.

The saloons here, the only ones left in the county, all closed at 8:30 last night to avoid any possible trouble. No notice was given of this intention in order to avoid the chance of habitual drinkers buying a supply, and the day has been unusually quiet, not an arrest having been made either here or in Montpelier.

REFUSE TO ORDER ELECTION.

Winamac, Ind., April 6.—Because the Pulaski county council made no appropriation for a local option election, the county commissioners this morning refused to take action on the petition asking for a local option election. They intend to let the matter rest until the May term.

PROHIBITION LAW UPHELD.

Montgomery, Ala., April 6.—The supreme court has declared the state prohibition law valid, all the judges concurring in the opinion. This is the second time the court has upheld the state wide act of the last legislature. It was attacked on several constitutional grounds.

REJECT HIGH LICENSE.

Austin, Texas, April 6.—The house today rejected the uniform high license bill and adopted one fixing the state tax at $100 on liquor and $100 on beer.

The condition of C. B. Woodworth is reported as but little changed from that of the past several days. Judge Allen Zollars, who is at the Hope hospital, continues to improve.

ROOSEVELT AND THE ITALIAN KING TOGETHER

Ex-President Goes Aboard Warship to Meet Royal Party at Messina.

Messina, April 6.—King Emmanuel and Theodore Roosevelt met this afternoon on board the Italian battleship Re Umberto in Messina harbor. The Re Umberto came down to the Strait of Messina with the king and the queen of Italy on board. She left Anzio yesterday and arrived here this morning.

Mr. Roosevelt came from Naples on board the steamer Admiral. The weather on the run down was beautiful. The Admiral arrived at Messina at five minutes before two.

DEPARTS FROM NAPLES.

Naples, April 6.—After spending yesterday afternoon and evening ashore in Naples, where he was given an enthusiastic welcome by the people of the city, Theodore Roosevelt began the second stage of his journey to the East African protectorate and Uganda shortly after midnight last night on board the steamer Admiral. He is due at Mombassa April 21.

Before going on board the Admiral last night Mr. Roosevelt thanked the head of the Neapolitan police, Chevalier Calabresi, for the excellent protection afforded him during his stay on shore. Mr. Roosevelt was accompanied everywhere by the chief.

During the audience yesterday with the mayor of Naples this official conveyed to Mr. Roosevelt a special vote of the municipal council thanking the former president and the American people for the success sent from the United States to the earthquake sufferers.

Mr. Roosevelt expressed his appreciation of this communication. He said there should be no question of gratitude. The earthquake gave the American people an opportunity to show their sympathy in this unparalleled disaster which had made Italy at once the creditor of the whole world.

Mr. Roosevelt boarded the Admiral at 10 o'clock last night. He spent some time in the smoking room conversing with his fellow passengers. The departure of the Admiral was delayed by waiting for the arrival of the German mails for South Africa. The train arrived at midnight, the mails were hurried on board and the steamer left port at once.

Visit to Razed City.

Mr. Roosevelt will leave the Admiral for a short visit to the ruins of Messina. He found on board the steamer, Signor Trinchetti, the prefect of Messina, who, by order of Premier Giolitti, came up to Naples to accompany Mr. Roosevelt on his inspection of the city.

As the Admiral steamed out of the gulf of Naples many of the craft in sight were illuminated.

Another passenger on board the Admiral is F. C. Selous, the English author and big game hunter. Mr. Selous is an old friend of Mr. Roosevelt and was given a cordial welcome. The hunter said he would be happy to join Mr. Roosevelt in big game shooting in the neighborhood of Nairobi and Mr. Roosevelt expressed his satisfaction at this promise of his company and the benefit of his experience.

RUM POWER ROUTED FROM MICHIGAN COUNTIES

Nineteen Out of Twenty-seven Voting Give Dry Majorities.

Detroit, Mich., April 6.—Upwards of six hundred saloons and ten breweries will be forced out of business in the nineteen counties of the state which voted "dry" at yesterday's election. Returns late last night gave the "drys" twenty of the twenty-seven counties in which the liquor question was voted upon, but today later figures swing Loosco county, which has seventeen saloons, into the "wet" column by 172 majority. In the eight counties which the liquor interest carried there are a total of about three hundred saloons, giving the Anti-Saloon League victory over two-thirds of the saloons which they attacked.

The slender majority of forty-one votes which the "drys" received in Jackson county, where there is a population of 47,000, indicates the bitterness of the fight that was carried on there. A recount is considered a certainty in this county. Washtenaw, Berrien, Monroe and Ottawa counties were the four big "wet" victories. Washtenaw, with the University of Michigan within its borders, rejected prohibition by 800 majority. In Berrien the "wets" had 2,000 majority, in Ottawa 1,500 and in Monroe 1,900.

The following table gives figures as to the status of the state on the liquor question as the result of option contests:

Counties in state	33
Previously dry	11
Voted dry yesterday	19
Voted wet yesterday	6
Vote still in doubt	1

Drys Lose Two Hiking Instances

Perhaps the most striking instances in which the dries lost where they had been most confident of victory were in Washtenaw and Monroe counties. In Washtenaw, where the university is located, they made special effort to drive the saloons out, but the strong German vote in the country districts saved the day for the wets, who won out by 828 majority.

In Monroe the dry forces had made a most strenuous campaign, importing speakers from outside the state. Two weeks ago it looked all dry, but since then the other side had been gaining ground—so much, in fact, that it was by a majority of 2,000 that the dries were snuffed out.

Berrien and Ottawa were two other counties in which the wets had all their own way, notwithstanding the strong effort of the anti-saloonists.

In Sanilac the wets practically gave up some time ago and concentrated their efforts on Huron and Tuscola, the adjoining counties. Their plan worked successfully only in part. They won in Huron, but in Tuscola were snuffed under by 1,400.

Jackson is in Doubt.

Indications are that Jackson county voted for prohibition by the slender margin of thirty votes. Before yesterday's election eleven of the eighty-three counties of the state were "dry."

Following are yesterday's results: "Dry"—Alcona, Allegan, Benzie, Branch, Calhoun, Charlevoix, Emmet, Genesee, Hillsdale, Ionia, Isosco, Isabella, Kalamazoo, Livingston, Newaygo, Sanilac, Tuscola, Chalevoix, Jackson.

"Wet"—Berrien, Huron, Montcalm, Mecosta, Ottawa, Washtenaw and Monroe, Isosco.

"We have broken the backbone of the liquor traffic in Michigan," declared Superintendent George W. Morrow, of the Michigan Anti-Saloon league, at midnight last night.

Republicans Get State.

Of course there was nothing to it on the state ticket. When the republican state convention named its ticket last February the matter of who would be elected was practically settled, except in the matter of majority.

This will run about 100,000. In all the counties except where local option was an issue the vote was very light. The following are the state officers elected:

Justices of the Supreme Court—Charles A. Blair and John W. Stone. Regents of the University—William L. Clements and George P. Codd. Superintendent of Public Instruction—Luther L. Wright.

Member State Board of Education—William J. McKee.

Members State Board of Agriculture—William L. Wallace, I. R. Waterbury, A. J. Doherty, R. D. Graham, William L. Carpenter and W. J. Oberdorfer.

Aside from local option, the big feature of the election was the municipal contests, and many of these were warmly contested. While the candidates ran on party tickets, party issues cut no figure; local issues alone governed.

PASSED A BAD CHECK.

Chauffer Signs Name of O. N. Guldin to the Paper.

Louis Jaetker, proprietor of the Peoples Clothing store on Calhoun street, near Columbia, reported to the police that William Chettle, formerly employed by O. N. Guldin as a chauffer, had passed a forged check for $15 on him. He was sent to the office of Prosecutor Thomas to file an affidavit.

Chettle had presented checks for similar amounts before and they had been honored and when the forged one was offered it was accepted without question and he was given the money on it. The police think he has gone out of town.

THE CAMBRIAN SAVING THE LOGAN

The United States transport Logan, which ran on a reef in the Harbor of Honolulu, Hawaii, late at night on March 13, was pulled off by the British cruiser Cambrian three days later. This photograph shows the war ship at her work of rescue.

The Logan left San Francisco on March 6, carrying eight hundred soldiers for the Philippines and a large number of civilian passengers. One thousand tons of her cargo were taken off to lighten the ship before the Cambrian was able to pull the transport from the reef.

A SPLENDID EXHIBIT OF HIGH ART IN PHOTOGRAPHY

Eastman School Brings a Picture Show That is Open to Public.

Public interest in the Eastman Annual School of Photography, which is now in progress in the city in the hall at 112 West Wayne street, lies in the free public exhibition which will be held there this evening. This exhibition of photographs includes some wonderful examples of the photographer's art and shows samples of work from negatives made in the best galleries of the United States. These pictures, which are well worth the seeing because of their beauty and variety, display something of the wonderful strides made in photography in recent years. Very soft colors and tones and remarkable lighting of a face, while the rest of the head is in shadow, are examples of what can be accomplished in these days of many facilities for lighting purposes, when skill and taste are combined. The life-like expression of features and the wonderful details which the camera produces so perfectly and yet with so realistic an appearance of texture, all show what the introduction of new processes and new kinds of paper means to the art. No longer must a photograph be only in black or white, but there are soft tones of brown, gray and mingling of black and white to produce softness. The photographers of the city and vicinity will have lessons today and tomorrow from six instructors under the management of Frank P. Hazel, the chief representative here from the Eastman School of Photography. Models will be posed, pictures taken, negatives developed for the benefit of the class. Examples in the display are grouped under heads on nepera paper, platinum, collodio carbon, angelo (another platinum paper), and carbon sepi.

Domestic Bliss.

They had been trotting in double harness for seven long, weary months, and the honeymoon had bumped the bumps for fair.

"John," she said as she dished out the breakfast food, "I need a little pin money this morning."

"What did you do with the $5 I gave you last week?" asked the man who had promised to love, honor and pay the freight.

"Oh, I don't remember," she replied. "It's so easy to spend $5 and have nothing to show for it."

"Right you are," sighed John. "That was the amount I paid the minister for marrying us."—St. Louis Republic.

GREAT NEW YORK BRIDGE JUST THROWN OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

THE NEW $20,000,000 QUEENSBORO BRIDGE. FROM THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.

New York, April 1.—New York and her sister borough, Queens, were brought into closer union when the Queensboro bridge, the first overhead link between the crowded, pulsating island of Manhattan and the roomy, rapidly growing borough across the East river was thrown open to the public.

Twenty thousand persons swarmed across the north footpath within two hours after Mayor McClellan declared the new avenue of traffic opened. At the same time a stream of automobiles, trucks, moving vans, old-fashioned buggies and spring wagons, "Harrigan" hacks and vehicles of every possible variety were passing over the broad, well paved roadway which stretches for a mile and a half from East Fifty-ninth street to Jackson and Jane streets across the river.

Here are some interesting facts about the new bridge:

Total cost, including approaches, $20,000,000.

Location—From East Fifty-ninth street, Manhattan, across East river and Blackwell's Island to Long Island City.

Length, 7,836 feet. Length of Manhattan approach, 1,952 feet; length of Queens approach, 2,672 feet.

Type of bridge, cantilever.

Builder, Pennsylvania Steel company.

Designed by Gustave Lindenthal.

Time building, six years.

Total weight of bridge, $3,400,000 pounds.

"Bridge contains four trolley tracks, two elevated railroad tracks, two floors, a roadway fifty-three feet wide and two footwalks, each sixteen feet wide.

In building it fifty-six workmen were killed.

Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars Waged on the Event.

Seattle, Wash., April 6.—A special to Seattle from Nome states that the Nome-Candle Creek dog race, promoted by the Nome Kennel club and upon which hundreds of thousands of dollars was waged, was won by Berger's teams, Nos. 1 and 2, driven by Scotty Allen and Percy Blatchford, respectively. They finished first and second as named. Berger wins the purse of $11,000 in gold and will hold for a year the handsome Sator trophy for the All Alaska sweepstake. The distance was 412 miles and the winners time was 82 hours and 2 minutes. The second team was 17 minutes behind the first. Siberian dogs, upon whose success $100,000 was wagered, became snow blind and finished third. There were fourteen teams in the race, which began last Thursday. The start was made in a blizzard and the temperature ranged from 10 to 20 degrees below zero. The winners broke last year's record by about twenty-four hours.

The best noon lunch served in the city from 11 to 2, for 15c. Regular supper from 5 to 7, 25c. State Cafe, opposite Majestic Theater, Sullivan Sisters.

LIVES WERE SAVED
BY A TELEPHONE OPERATOR

Logansport Couple, Dying of Coal Gas, Rescued by Girl's Wit.

Logansport, Ind., April 6.—A telephone girl last night saved the lives of Benjamin Erb and family from death by asphyxiation. Erb is employed as a fireman on the Vanderbilt road, and shortly after twelve o'clock he was called for duty. Several calls failed to bring an answer to the phone and the girl became alarmed. Suddenly the receiver was jerked from the hook and some one cried for help. Although frightened, the girl realized that something was wrong and called a nearby physician, who went to the house. She also aroused several railroad men. The house was found locked. The door was forced and stretched on the floor beside the telephone was Erb. He was dressed only in his night clothes.

The house was filled with coal gas and doors and windows were hurriedly thrown open. Investigation revealed Erb's wife and their two children unconscious in bed. They were hurriedly taken to the air and heroic treatment was begun to revive them. The efforts were finally rewarded and Erb, his wife and the children regained consciousness. All well recovered.

A door of the stove had been left open when the family retired at night and coal gas, which formed, escaped and filled the house. But for the fact that Erb was called to take out a "put" and the presence of mind of the telephone girl, the whole family would certainly have suffocated.

TRYING TO PLACE WATSON.

The attempt of Ex-Congressman

James E. Watson and his friends in Washington to oust Judge Robert S.

Taylor, of this city, from his place on the Mississippi river commission to make a berth for Mr. Watson ought not to succeed. Judge Taylor has held a place on the commission continuously for twenty-eight years and his services have been of immense value to the country, and especially so to the states that border the river. He has become foremost as an authority on matters relating to the freaks and idiosyncrasies of that singular great stream and to deprive the country of the benefit of his scientific and familiar knowledge would be a loss indeed.

The purpose of this attack on his position is plainly to provide a lying-in place for a lame duck, of which Indiana at present has several of considerable distinction, not the least of whom is Hon. James Eli Watson, of Rushville, Ind. No doubt Mr. Watson has good desert to the solicitude and providence of the administration and his powerful friends in congress, but provision for him should not be made at so great a cost of efficiency to an important federal commission, and more especially at this juncture when the problem of deep waterway improvements and projects has become a matter of vital policy. Mr. Watson was most urgently solicited to make choice of two important government posts—the Cuban ministry and the Porto Rican governorship—and declined both. The place he is now after is evidently reached out for with design to give him a post that pays well and at the same time will permit him to return to law practice, which he is said to be very desirous of doing. Mr. Watson should have something, no doubt; but not that which he is said to covet.

IN A DEATH GRAPPLE.

A real trust-bustling affair has entered upon a vital stage in the United States circuit court at St. Louis. It is the government's suit for dissolution of the Standard Oil company, and the future of the federal crusade against monopoly will hinge on the outcome of this important trial. For near two and a half years the government's special agents have been preparing for this test of the great monopoly's right to exist. The evidence is believed to be the strongest that can be procured and it has been most painstakingly prepared. If it shall fall out that the first and greatest of all monopolies of this country is proof against this assault there will be little use of further or other procedure

under the federal anti-monopoly laws

as they stand today. The progress of the new tariff bill is just now having somewhat a monopoly itself in the matter of public attention, but this stupendous legal affair in St. Louis really transcends the tariff in vital public importance. It will practically determine, when all is said and done, the power of the government to extinguish a monopoly and safeguard

the country against vast consolidations of capital in production or commerce, in restraint of trade. So far the government has fared rather badly

in its endeavors to curb the Standard Oil company and some of its subsidiary concerns. This fight is upon the old he octopus, the daddy of them all, and if the monster survives this assault, which is veritably upon its life, then the law may be called powerless to deal with huge combinations which gather to themselves a monopoly of the greatest productive and commercial interests of the country.

The tariff managers in the house have conceded that there is at least one joker too any in the Payne bill. One of them, neatly designed to make the strangle hold of the oil octopus on its competitors "more binding," has been displaced by an amendment providing for a 25 per cent advalorem duty on crude oil. It was first discovered by a Texas member who was casually rummaging the provisions of the Payne bill that a countervailing duty designed to keep

Standard Oil competitors from bringing in crude oil from foreign countries had been obscurely inserted in the bill. But the real joker was found to be a "drawback" provision which would enable the Standard to do precisely what the countervailing duty would prevent its competitors from doing. Under operation of this feature of the oil schedule the octopus could ship in from the Mexican oil fields practically duty free an amount of crude petroleum equal to the amount of its exports of the refined article. The Standard is the only oil company that exports refined oil in any quantity worth mentioning. See?

A special rule fixing next Friday at 3 o'clock as the time for taking a vote on the Payne tariff bill has been adopted by the house. The rule provides that there shall be a free field for amendment of the schedules on hides, lumber, barley and barley malt and for such amendments as the ways and means committee shall in its wisdom see fit to report to the house. That these schedules specially selected for opportunity will go through about as they stand at present is practically settled. The opportunity is not afforded with any purpose really to amend, but to give certain members who fear the anger of outraged constituencies to go on record and thus escape the wrath of the folks at home. If the bill undergoes any essential changes in the fire of the coming few days it will be most surprising. The concentrated powers that rule congress have long since decided what shall and what shall not be in the bill and the changes that are going to be made will first become apparent when Mr. Aldrich gets hold of it over in the senate.

Pittsburg, proud city of millionaires and muck, again has come into her own. Bill Magee and his well appetized satraps are now in the seats of the mighty and the kind of rule and the brand of politics Mayor Bill and his crew, which he has personally brought up by hand, know how to give the populace and property owners of the merged cities will make everybody

forget in a short time how the word reform is spelled. Mayor Guthrie, who was a real reformer and sought to render honest account of his official conduct as well as to help his people to move in the way they should go, has stepped down and out and Mayor Bill

Magee has stepped up and in. What

Pittsburg has done or may do to herself in the matter of mayors and other public functionaries is no funeral of the public outside, but the spectacle of

Pittsburg goings on after Bill Magee and his crowd set well warmed up and renew acquaintance with fat opportunity will be worth watching even from a great distance.

The women of the country are devoted to do their worst. The ways and means committee and the rules committee are standing pat on the glove and hosiery duties and there will be no opportunity to amend the schedules pertaining to them. Of course nothing can be hoped for in the senate. The ruling powers of that body are boosters of tariffs, not reductionists. The price of those grades of leather gloves and cotton hosiery that the millions wear is going up. That much is settled. What are you going to do about it? Therefore becomes a question to be asked in mere wanton idleness.

As Castro nears his native shores his successor begins to copiously imbibe the panic waters and feel singular impulses to do a marathon to the forecasts primeval while the great and powerful nations of the earth consider by what means the turbulent lion of thunder may best be tamed. Jacketted without making the job appear brutal.

A Chicago professor asserts that cold storage eggs are better than fresh ones. All right; take his word for it.

Now let him tell how to identify the correct brand in time.

The casual dog fight is the antidote for dull care in most droning communities. In Pensacola, when time hangs heavy and surcease is sought from the condition. The first officer and eighten of the crew and passengers were landed safely, but the captain and twenty persons are missing.

TOTAL INDEBTEDNESS IS CLEARED FROM THE RESCUE HOME

At Annual Meeting $701 is Raised—Officers Were Also Elected.

The entire debt of the Fort Wayne Rescue Home and Mission, amounting to $701.13 was liquidated at the seventh annual meeting held at the mission on Monday evening. The treasurer's report showed that $3,778.76 had been paid in during the year and that there had been an expenditure of $3,760.03, leaving a cash balance on hand of $18.68. The annual election of officers was a feature of the meeting and resulted as follows: President, A. G. Barry, re-elected; vice president, E. A. K. Hackett; secretary, J. A. Quince; treasurer, F. P. Wilt; superintendent, George I. Cooper.

The board of managers is formed by the above officers, also L. W. Hills, H. A. Grotholtman, F. W. Kelsey, Dr. W. S. Furguson, Mrs. George P. Evans, B. P. Mossman, M. S. Willson, J. B. Franke, S. F. Bowser, Mrs. J. A. Quince and Mrs. O. N. Guldin.

The Fort Wayne Rescue Home is now a corporation instead of an association, and the constitution was approved at the evening's meeting.

The mission was opened seven years ago in this city by Rev. Adam Wiltner and has been closed but three days during that time. Reports show that over 200,000 have there had the gospel preached to them.

Superintendent Cooper in his report at the meeting presented some very interesting statistics of the work that has been accomplished during the past year. A portion of the report was as follows: Gospel meetings held in mission, 354; in jail, 44; funerals, 3; attendance at Sunday school sessions, 51; attendance at mission, 22,294; average attendance daily, 61; came forward to altar, 297; asked for prayer, 1,860; came during day to be prayed with, 119; attendance at the jail, not including mission workers, 1,003; professed Christ, 90. Beds were furnished to many during the year. The records show that 3,901 beds were furnished men; 579 to women and 90 to homeless children, making a sum total of 34,570. 2,193 meals were furnished men, 1,620 to women and 266 to children; clothing to 840 men, women and children; and free baths to 1,062 men.

Superintendent and Mrs. Cooper and their co-mission workers made 1,000 calls at homes during the year. 5,400 calls for temporal and spiritual help were made at the Rescue home, and 4,000 telephone calls were answered.

Regarding employment, temporary work was secured for 210 men and 60 women, permanent positions for 37 men and 21 women; 12 dependent children were sent to orphan's homes, 4 of the charges found parents, and homes were given 5. Wayward girls cared for by the mission were fourteen in number, and 6 paroled prisoners were taken in charge. At the conclusion of his comprehensive report, Superintendent Cooper sincerely thanked all who had interested themselves in behalf of the Rescue home and had lent their assistance in the extension of the good work it is accomplishing.

EPISCOPAL CONVENTION.

Semi-Annual Meet of Michigan City Diocese at Lake Wawasee.

The semi-annual convention of the Michigan City diocese of the Episcopal church will be held at All Saints chapel, Lake Wawasee, April 28, 29 and 30. The semi-annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the diocese will be held at the same time, its part in the program being the opening feature of the convention. The Emmanuel movement, marriages and divorces will be given considerable attention in papers and discussions at the convention.

The month of April closes the fourteenth year of the episcopate of Bishop John Hazen White and the convention will in a measure be commemorative of that event. The prelate has invited all delegates to be his guests and they will be entertained at the Vawter Park hotel at Lake Wawasee.

Rev. Edward Wilson Averill, rector of Trinity Episcopal church in this city, will attend the convention and will present a paper on the topic, "The Church's Sacraments Possess Vital Power to Conquer Grace." Delegates from the Woman's Auxiliary of the local parish will likely be appointed at the first regular business meeting to be held shortly after Easter. These appointments would probably have been made this week, but the meeting was postponed on account of the observance of Holy Week. All delegates are expected to attend the convention prepared to give an account of the work and study their respective branches have been doing during the winter. The members of the Auxiliary expect to have with them for the convention Mrs. William T. Wright, president of the Chicago branch of the Church Periodical club, who will give an address on the great and interesting work of the club with which she is so prominently identified.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TO CONTRIBUTE

New Plan of Easter Offering at Trinity Episcopal Church.

It has been decided by the teachers of the Sunday school of Trinity Episcopal church that the children's offering this year will be divided between the missionary fund and the regular church fund. Children will put all of their Easter offering into their mite boxes. They will bring their mite boxes and the envelopes for the church offering with them to Sunday school at 9 o'clock Easter Sunday morning. There the teachers will divide the offering of each child, putting one-half into the church offering envelope and the other half into the missionary offering.

Thus each child will have a church offering to make, and although the children will give less to missions at Easter, they will have given more at the end of the year than ever before. Sunday school children who are collecting money in their little mite boxes are urged to make a special effort during the remainder of the Lenten season for the Easter festival.

At the instance of the rector of Trinity church, Rev. Edward W. Averill, a circular letter has been sent out this week to all members of the parish, enclosing an envelope for their Easter offering, and asking them to return a card indicating the amount which they will give on Easter. This method, in the past, has been productive of good results, and for this reason all members of the parish are asked to co-operate with the vestry in this plan.

BAPTIST MEMBERSHIP GAIN.

New Adherents at First Church Receive Hand of Fellowship.

During the month now members have been received into the First Baptist church and at the impressive service on Sunday morning were given the hand of fellowship. The new adherents of the local church were received as follows: Baptism—William Bonnell, Claude Miller, Harry Waterman, Frank Joker, Maxine Kromm, Cleo Goff, Edna Joker, Laura Bradley, Mabel Siedel, Ethel Elliott. By letter—John E. Anderson, Mrs. John E. Anderson, Jane Anderson, Maude Challenger, Ralph Challenger, Mrs. D. L. Mason, Mrs. L. S. Scott. By restoration—E. D. Challenger.

Services will be held each evening this week at the First Baptist church except Saturday evening. Tonight Rev. John F. Vichert, the pastor, will deliver a sermon on "The Deepening Shadows," basing it on Matt. 26:35. S. R. Taylor will render a solo. There was a gratifying attendance at the opening of the week's services Monday night, when the pastor preached on "Christ Foreseeing the Cross."

Rev. Henry B. Master, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will preach Wednesday evening on "The Power of Love," John 15:12. Miss Mabel Carter will sing. Rev. John F. Vichert will supply the pulpit at the First Presbyterian church the same evening, speaking on "The Prince of Peace," Isaiah 9:6.

The ladies of the Southeast Section of the First Baptist church will serve a meat-pie supper in the church dining-room on Wednesday evening from 5:30 to 7:30 o'clock. A nominal charge will be asked for the same.

The Young Men's Bible class of the First Baptist church will give its annual banquet on Thursday evening, April 20.

LOCAL DELEGATES ATTEND.

Annual U. B. Missionary Meeting Opens Tonight in Elkhart.

Rev. and Mrs. George F. Byrer, Mrs. F. A. Thomas, Mrs. H. B. Cook, Mrs. C. M. Gandy and Miss Blanche Bauch, of Calvary United Brethren church, left at noon today for Elkhart to attend the thirty-first annual session of the Woman's Missionary association of the United Brethren in Christ. The session will open this evening at the United Brethren church in Elkhart with a special service to be delivered by Rev. L. Orville Oyler, of Huntington, and will close with the afternoon meeting on Thursday.

Mrs. E. K. Shumaker, of Flat Rock, Ohio, who has been engaged in United Brethren missionary work in China, will be in attendance and will give an address on "Our Work in China" at the meeting tomorrow afternoon. The officers of the association are: President, Mrs. J. C. Fretz, of Deedsville, Ind.; first vice president, Mrs. Sue Richer, Peru; second vice president, Mrs. C. M. Gandy, Fort Wayne; secretary, Mrs. George F. Byrer, Fort Wayne; secretary of literature, Mrs. C. L. Raymond, Huntington; treasurer, Mrs. L. O. Oyler, Huntington.

REFORMED CHURCH NOTES.

Services Each Evening at St. John's—Ladies' Meeting Thursday.

Lenten services are being held each evening this week at St. John's Reformed church. On Good Friday the pastor, Rev. John H. Bosch, will conduct special services at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m.

The monthly meeting of the Ladies' society of St. John's church will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the ladies' room of the church. Following the business session refreshments will be served and a social hour enjoyed. The hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. Lisette Buecker, Mrs. Emma Driftmeyer, Mrs. Mary Doerner, Mrs. Elizabeth Entrobacher, Mrs. Elizabeth Elzinger, Mrs. Susanna Ferkel, Mrs. Charlotte Lenz, Mrs. Anna Schultz.

W. C. T. U. MEETING.

Program of Interest Arranged for Wednesday Afternoon.

The bi-monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. James Trythall, 221 East Butler street. Devotions will be led by Mrs. V. G. McFarland. "Some Reasons Why Women Should Vote," will be presented by Mrs. Joel Welty. Mrs. H. E. Drake will speak on the topic, "Franchise Echoes, Agitate and Educate." Refreshments will be served after the meeting. On April 21 a W. C. T. U. meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. J. Hunter, 520 West Superior street.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY FORMED.

Twenty Young Ladies Organize Band at United Brethren Church.

Under the direction of Mrs. George F. Byrer, twenty young ladies of Calvary United Brethren church have organized a missionary band. The following have been chosen as officers of the new organization: President, Miss Pastor Who Leaves and Pastor Who Comes to Wayne Street M. E. Church.

Rev. C. C. Travis, who comes from Mishawaka to Wayne Street Church.

Rev. Frank Lenig, who goes to Huntington.

Rev. C. Claud Travis, appointed to the pastorate of Wayne street M. E. church in Fort Wayne, is regarded as one of the most gifted young clergymen in the North Indiana conference. His rise in the ministry has been rapid and continuous, and his future is one of exceptional promise. For the past two years he has been pastor of the First M. E. church at Mishawaka, and prior to that time was in one of the smaller South Bend churches for two years. He is a graduate of Wabash college.

Concerning him a Mishawaka correspondent of the South Bend News says: "Rev. C. C. Travis came to the pastorate of the local church two years ago from a charge which is considered a most important one. Through his kind spirit and energetic handling of the word of truth and plainly living the holy writ he has made for himself a place in the hearts of the people which will yearn for his presence when he is called to another charge. In matters of business, in his social life, in the homes of his parishioners he was ideal. To the sick he was a balm, to the sorrowing he was a comforter, to the grief stricken he was an index to the new life. His words of encouragement will be missed and his hearty handshake will be remembered."

Editorially the South Bend News says: "The transfer of Rev. C. Claud Travis to the pastorate of a Fort Wayne church will be regretted by many people in both South Bend and Mishawaka, where Mr. Travis has occupied pulpits for several years past. Mr. Travis was instrumental in building up a large congregation while pastor of Grace Methodist church in South Bend and in Mishawaka. He duplicated this work as pastor of the First church. More than this Mr. Travis formed many friendships here and at Mishawaka both inside and outside the church that contributed to the breadth of his usefulness as a minister and his popularity as a man. For some time Mr. Travis has been recognized as one of the most effective preachers of the state."

Five prominent churches in the conference sought to secure his appointment for the coming year, but the Fort Wayne church was successful. Rev. Mr. Travis will arrive in Fort Wayne Saturday afternoon and will occupy his new pulpit on Sunday. Next week the Epworth league of Wayne street church will give a reception in honor of the new pastor.

Rev. Mr. Lenig, who has been pastor of the Wayne street church for the past two years, is given an excellent appointment at Huntington and the newspapers there indicate that his selection is highly gratifying in that city. He is a preacher of much power, an indefatigable worker and leaves many friends in Fort Wayne.

The ladies of Salem Reformed church will hold their annual Easter sale of useful and artistic needlework and baked goods at the church hall on Thursday afternoon.

The Sewing Circle and the Ladies' Aid society of the English Lutheran Church of the Redeemer will meet tomorrow afternoon at the parish house.

A social meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of the West Jefferson Street Church of Christ will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Guy Conklin, 34 Wagner street. The hostess will be assisted by Mrs. Shideler.

Mrs. George Nicholson, of Bluffton, is a new patient at the Lutheran hospital, where she will undergo a surgical operation.

MERRY WIDOW BLINDED HIM.

Rim of White Hat Tore Out Eye of Chicago Car Conductor.

Chicago, April 6.—John Thomas, a conductor on the Calumet & Chicago electric line, lost one of his good eyes while on duty Saturday—just it to a "Merry Widow."

In the course of his duties Thomas assisted a young woman with a blue pompadour and a hat of wide expanse to board the car. He went about his task of collecting fares on the crowded car, when a curve caused a lurch which tossed him to one side. He fell against the hat, and either its unyielding rim or a pin somewhere concealed therein gouged out his eye.

In the excitement that followed Thomas' acute suffering the young woman disappeared. Detectives are looking for her. What the specific charge will be if she is arrested remains to be disclosed.

SOCIETY

A most informal little kaffee klatsch of this afternoon was given by Mrs. H. A. Duemling in order that a few old friends might meet Mrs. Duemling, senior, and Mrs. Lupton, of Milwaukee, who are visiting relatives in the city for a few days.

Some of the quaint customs for celebrating the Easter festival still survive in Europe. Of one of them Mrs. Mary Large, a one time resident of Fort Wayne, has written to a friend here as follows: "I wish that you could see this little dorf, (in Thuringen, Germany) where they follow the customs of their forefathers. On the day before Easter the children go around with an ox-cart and collect wood from every house, and old broomsticks for pokers. Then in the evening they make a big bonfire in the Schutzenplatz and the whole village go and watch it. The Easter fire they call it. Already they are talking of it and the good hausfraus are saving the broomsticks."

Mrs. F. L. Racine is entertaining her mother, Mrs. Sablin, of South Milford. Mrs. George Jacobs, of Cleveland, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Mossman.

Mrs. Coleman Ehrman, of East Jefferson street, is visiting in Bellevue, O., for a few days.

Miss Jessie Goodwin, of Indianapolis, is spending a few days with Dr. and Mrs. Eric Crull.

Kenneth Lane has returned from a visit in Ann Arbor with his brothers, Winthrop and Robert.

Dr. and Mrs. Clifford Wallace have moved into their new home at 807 West Creighton avenue.

The Ladies' Jewish Aid society will meet tomorrow evening with Mrs. M. Frank, of Hanna street.

Miss Dorothy Alden, of Fairfield avenue, has as her guest Miss Winifred Eastman, of Detroit.

Miss Edith Metzger, of Lafayette, is visiting her sisters, Mrs. Roman Zoeller and Mrs. A. C. Goeke, of this city.

Mrs. A. J. August, of Topeka, Kan., and Mrs. Nathan Stern, of Indianapolis, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. Chaska.

Miss Mabel Evans, of Defiance, Ohio, has returned home after a week's visit with her aunt, Mrs. Charles McCulloch.

Mrs. E. F. Thomas and baby went to Logansport this morning to spend a few days with her parents and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Rogers and daughter, Louise, came home yesterday from a two weeks' visit in Springfield, Ill.

Miss Mabel Tinkham returned today to West Unity, O., after a few days' visit here with her parents, of West Main street.

Dan Benninghoff returned to Indianapolis today, where he is a student at Purdue's medical department, after a visit with relatives.

Miss Gladys Williams has returned to her studies in Cleveland after a week's holiday spent with her mother and sisters, of South Clinton street.

Miss Alice Knight will come home this week from New Milford, Conn., where she is attending school, to spend a two weeks' holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Knight.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Crouse, of St. Mary's avenue, entertained a few relatives and friends informally on Saturday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Stahl, who were recently married. In playing games prizes were won by Mrs. Kope and Mrs. Schair.

Miss Maribel Olds, Miss Vera Treseult and Miss Jessie Orrock are among the young folks planning to go to Lima to attend the Easter Monday dance given by the students at Howe school.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. T. DeWald will be at home in a day or two from their trip to Mexico and other southwestern points. Mrs. DeWald and Mrs. Charles Muhler will leave the last of the week for Peoria, Ill., to remain over Easter with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Welch, of No. 110, P. L., who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Beuke, of Harrison street, left today for a few days' visit in Detroit. They will then go to San Francisco and sail for their own home.

Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Hanna and Miss Eliza Hanna are going to Lima, Ind., on Saturday to remain over Easter with Herbert Hanna. Miss Hanna will remain for the Easter Monday dance, and her brother will accompany her home the following day.

Mrs. Edwin A. Gillette, of Jackson street, gave a prettily appointed dinner party last evening in honor of Mrs. A. R. Barr. Blue hydrangeas and muscous formed the table decoration.

Mrs. Burr left today for her future home in St. Paul, Minn., where Mr. Burr has been located for a month.

Mrs. George Philbrick entertained the Help Each Other club this afternoon. The ladies meet once in a fortnight and sew for the hostess. Any kind of work to be done with needles that the hostess chooses to have done the club performs with pleasure. It may be darning stockings or hemming napkins, or even knotting a comfortable for a bed. Or if the hostess so desires she can get a lift on embroidery she wants done. Refreshments are served each meeting, but every hostess is limited to two articles of menu.

Attractive Gowns for Spring "At Homes."

Frocks with long panels reaching from the popular half bodice to the floor will be favorites for afternoon wear this season because of their graceful lines, that are becoming alike giving a heavy and lumbering movement highly suggestive of "rolling."

It is to be understood that unless the shoulders are well thrown back and the chest expanded a graceful walk is impossible, so it is necessary to properly distribute the weight to make a correct balance, and this is done only by holding the shoulders in position and not permitting the lower part of the torso to be unduly prominent.

The spine must be straight, yet a lean forward, so slight as not to be perceptible, is essential, otherwise the abdomen is incorrectly placed. The lean is not from the shoulders or waist, but from the hips, and the shoulders, thrown back, counterbalance any tendency to dipping forward.

Remembering the importance of holding the body correctly, attention may be given to the feet, and should there be a sensation of awkwardness in trying to place the foot so the hall is first to touch the ground, some ankle exercises should be practised.

One of these is to cross the feet, so that one is entirely removed from the floor, and twist it forward, back and around, being certain that the work is done from the ankle joint and not from the knee. It should be needless to add that no boots or shoes are to be worn while doing this work. Another movement is to point the foot extremely, making as straight a line as may be from ankle to toe. While in that position the toe is moved in semi-circular form as far around as it can go without being painful.

When stiffness of the joints makes the exercises painful relief may be secured by first rubbing the ankles with a mixture of one ounce of rose water, a gill of white brandy, four ounces of mutton tallow, two ounces of olive oil, and one-half ounce of virgin wax and half of one grain of musk.

The wax and tallow are melted in a cup set into a pan of hot water, and as they soften the oil is added. The cup is removed from heat and the brandy and rose water, already mixed, are very slowly poured in, beating all the time. The musk goes in last.

Shoes naturally affect the gait and it is a mistake to think that high heels are necessarily injurious. When a woman has an arched instep she has more support from heels of that kind than from flat ones and walking becomes much easier, but a flatfooted person wearing high heels cannot help awkwardness.

LETTER FOLDING MACHINE.

Relatives of James White Patent Great Labor-Saving Device.

A letter folding machine with a capacity of 30,000 letters a day and requiring only one person to operate has been invented by C. D. Van Elten, of Sidney, O., and his son, Thomas D. Van Elten. The letter is a brother-in-law of James White, of this city, and Mr. White is taking a great interest in the device, which can be seen in the North American building. It has the one great advantage over all other folding machines of feeding automatically, a difficult thing to accomplish because of the adhesion of the sheets.

Mr. White states that there is a possibility of the Van Elten factory now located at Sidney being moved here. A number of other machines are made in the factory in which about thirty men are employed.

HE WAS TENDERED A GOOD PLACE BY GOVERNOR

W. H. Scheiman Declines Appointment on Public Accounting Board.

It has just developed that County Treasurer William H. Scheiman, of this city, was tendered an appointment on the state public accounting board, created by act of the recent legislature, but that Mr. Scheiman has declined the place, assigning as his reason that he prefers to serve out his term as treasurer to which he was re-elected in November by the people of Allen county.

The fact that Governor Marshall had offered the Allen county man the place was not permitted to become public at the time, and the general public will get its first knowledge of the fact from The Sentinel today. It is understood that Governor Marshall was so impressed with Treasurer Scheiman's system of keeping public accounts and with the thorough grasp of the situation manifest in his explanations before the legislative committees when the public accounting bill was under consideration that he quickly determined upon Mr. Scheiman as a member of the board and sent a special emissary to Fort Wayne to make a tender of the place to Mr. Scheiman.

The latter, while expressing his appreciation of the honor implied in the tender of the place by Governor Marshall, declined the appointment, explaining as he did so that the work of the board was in a measure circumscribed and that he preferred to fill out the official term to which he had been elected in Allen county. The place declined by Treasurer Scheiman pays a salary of $4,000 per annum, and the commissions are for four years.

Fried Eggs.

Prepare and wash two eggs, wipe them thoroughly dry, and dredge over them a little flour, cut them into pieces four inches long, brush over with beaten egg, dip them into breadcrumb, and fry till a golden color in smoking hot fat. Serve them garnished with fried parsley.

Perced Tomatoes.

Remove the tops from eight tomatoes and scoop out the centers, taking care not to break the under skin, season each with salt and pepper. Put one tablespoonful butter into a saucepan, add six chopped mushrooms, one tablespoonful chopped parsley, a teaspoonful chopped onion, two tablespoonfuls chopped cooked ham, dust of powdered herbs, pepper and salt, fry eight minutes, add one beaten egg, and fill each tomato. Put into a baking tin with one tablespoonful butter, cover with a buttered paper, bake twenty minutes.

Put the centers of the tomatoes into a saucepan, add one small onion chopped, two chopped mushrooms, one tablespoonful butter, fry five minutes, then add half a pint brown stock, salt and pepper, boil until reduced to half the quantity; skim off the fat, pass through a sieve, Reheat, and pour round the tomatoes; sprinkle on the top of each tomato a few brown breadcrumb, and fry till a golden color in smoking hot fat. Serve them garnished with fried parsley.

New Metal Millinery Has Its Advantages--For Instance:

New York, April 6.—Metal millinery, proof against rain, fire and crush, warranted to withstand the gale, no matter how great the overhang of any particular hat may be, now makes its bid for the tickle favor of the fair.

One of these days no woman will be without at least one metallic bit of headgear, any more than the most artistic building can do without the crowning glory of a zinc cornice, if the hopes of the inventor come true. It is possible to go out in April showers with such hats as these, with a spout along the rim, if need be, to send the overflow where it should go. They can be worn to fires, at railroad stations where grim locomotives puff and to all places where the careless men may toss cigarettes out of top story windows.

Modistes are already beginning to take counsel and to acquire a practical knowledge of bolting and riveting on the bias. These millinery marvels may be had in Lake Superior copper, bronze, silver and gold, and in all shapes, mouse trap, scoop shovel, coal scuttle, peach basket and cabriolet.

Once seen they are never to be forgotten, but they can be made attractive from year to year by melting them up or resoldering them, and those who may be handy with pneumatic riveting tools need not despair when the styles change.

Architects in Headgear.

Numerous orders for the metal millinery have already been placed by a firm of architectural bronze founders, which from the covering of doors and brackets and other ornaments has turned its attention to the ornamentation of the whole family. It has been said from time to time that nobody ever plated a non-conductor. The idea dawned upon the inventors that if one could make a non-conductor conduct the problem would be solved.

Experiments were first started on wooden doors, for there is a new section in the building code which now requires that the entrance doors of separate apartments in flat houses be metal covered. The wood was therefore covered with chemical solution, which made it a conductor of electricity, and upon this prepared surface by a method concerning which the public and the newspapers have not been taken into confidence, a heavy coating of metal was imposed. The next step was to lay metal thinly over carved wooden brackets, and plaster ornaments and even statues, all with the idea of giving building contractors and architects durable decorative material at small cost. Then one of the experts in a moment of inspiration put a gold plating on a peach, and the young inventor asked why not make me a metal hat? So the copper and gold and silver hat business was launched, and after several months of experience the unique spectacle is presented of architectural founders branching out in millinery.

Most hats are issued on metallic basis, for the framework which stays them is usually of steel wire. On this is placed a superstructure of mosquito, tartan or lace, often stiffened by starch or clay. Then comes the decoration of apples, cherries, peaches, daisies, roses or tulips, all held down by basting threads and lashed by veils and made solid by those dainty basting pins of steel which are often weapons of aggression and defense. Rain will take the frills and crimps and the color out of ordinary hats, and that is what every woman knows.

Follow Usual Forms.
The recipe for a metal toque or turban or "Merry Widow" does not differ from the usual form. The modiste uses the same material and then has the model done in copper or whatever the customer can afford in the way of metal. The hat is minus the trimmings, is treated with a fixing solution and subjected to the conversion process. The fine particles of metal settle into the most delicate fabric and conform minutely to the shape.

The finest Irish point lace can be used in this way. After the body of the hat has been thus coated an alcohol lamp or a match is applied to it and all the fibre is burned out, much in the same way as the cotton or linen support of gas mantles is removed before these illuminating devices go into commission. Nothing is left now but the metal. Squares of lace can be treated in the same manner. After that the bows and the ribbons and the flowers are treated in the same manner.

The coloring is, of course, that of the metal, and the various hues of roses and orange blossoms and cherries are rendered by various acids and chemical preparations, which the bronze founders employ with such skill.

A GOOD REASON

Fort Wayne People Can Tell You Why It Is So.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the cause of disease, and that is why the cures are always lasting. This remedy strengthens and tones up the kidneys, helping them to drive out of the body the liquid poisons that cause backache, headache and distressing kidney and urinary complaints. Fort Wayne people testify to permanent cures.

Mrs. Mary Sutley, 301 Baker street, Fort Wayne, Ind., says: "I was in bad shape as a result of kidney trouble about three years ago. My back ached all the time, I was very nervous and had frequent spells of dizziness. A few boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Meyer Bros. Co.'s drug store, freed me from these troubles and I have not been bothered since. Occasionally use Doan's Kidney Pills, however, finding that they act as a tonic to my kidneys and keep me in good health."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

THE TWEEN

Imperial 3 Hats

Sometimes the tints are shaded or set by the blowpipe. The ordinary copper hat does not need anything but acid. The gold and silver ones respond in measure to the acid test for high grade millinery, although there is room for the play of colors through chemical agents.

Good, serviceable metal hats can be produced which weigh only from six to eight ounces, for, owing to the high tensile strength of the material used in construction, not so much framework is required. There have been hats captured by the firm which weighed as much as four pounds made by the Paris modistes. It would be an extra large and umbrageous metal affair which would tip the scale at more than a pound.

One of these days the electroplater, the blacksmith and the jeweler may go into partnership with the operators with French names who display their signs in Fifth avenue. Occasionally the village blacksmith could take a flyer in hats when the farrier and wagon hardware business was dull. Diamonds, if need be, can be sewed or basted into lace hats, and when the filaments are converted into metal the gems are set as skillfully there as though the most expert of lapidaries had done the task.

The new invention is considered an inestimable boon for brides who get more silver bonbon dishes and gold salt cellars than they can possibly use, for they can at small cost have them made up into hats.

The news that the metal hats are now on the possibilities has begun to travel, and already there is an order for a $200 gold amalgam cabriolet with filigree cherries and ornamental feathers. The use of fine copper wire is recommended intrinsically, for so far it has been difficult to get house-smiths with a sufficiently delicate sense of touch to use the rivets which might be required.

The new millinery experts have sent out a warning that there must be no imitations, although it is likely that in spite of them forging will be conducted along many lines. According to the latest pronouncements from Paris, the hats will be taller than ever, but according to the experts who are in charge of the millinery annex there need be no cause for fear that they will be top heavy.

A skilled engineer, well accustomed to calculating the stress and strain of sky-scrappers, has already begun work on the designs for hats, to be built as many stories high as the workers and the demands of fashion may dictate. The inventor says that gold and silver hats may be had at anywhere from $50 to $100, according to weight, and that copper and bronze ones will soon be within the range of the purses of all. Owing to the pliability of the structures the shapes may be altered by the skillful use of stanchion braces or of rivets. Families who can afford to preserve hats as relics can have them committed to imperishable bronze, so that they may be handed down to the generations yet to be.

CHANGE IS MADE IN 3 FORT WAYNE PULPITS

New Pastors at First,
Wayne Street and Simpson M. E. Churches.

But two of the five Methodist Episcopal pastors in Fort Wayne were returned to this city for the coming year by appointment of Bishop Anderson at the North Indiana conference which closed its sessions at Greenfield Monday evening. These are Rev. W. P. Herron, at Trinity church, and Rev. C. M. Hobbs, at St. Paul church.

The First, the Wayne Street and the Simpson churches have new pastors. Rev. J. K. Cecil, formerly of Trinity church and recently pastor at Bluffton, comes to the First M. E. church to succeed Rev. Charles A. Rowand, who is assigned to the First M. E. church at Marion. Rev. C. Claud Travis, for several years pastor at Mishawaka, comes to Wayne Street church, succeeding Rev. Frank Leng, who becomes pastor at Huntington. Rev. R. C. Jones, coming from Gas City, is made pastor of Simpson M. E. church to succeed Rev. Loren M. Edwards, who goes to Portland. Rev. L. C. Simms is the new pastor on the Fort Wayne circuit. All of the newly appointed pastors will occupy their pulpits here next Sunday.

Rev. A. S. Preston, who returns to the active ministry after a rest of a year or more, is given the pastorate at Winchester.

A Brookville Man Tells How Dr.
Williams' Pink Pills Cured
Him After Other Treatment Failed.

Many people are suffering daily from stomach trouble because they cling to old-fashioned methods, eat predigested foods and in other ways aggravate the disorder they seek to cure. But prejudice must give way before proof such as the following:

Mr. Albert Underwood, of Brookville, Ind., is well known in his home town where he has been in business for the past eight years. He says:
"When I first became sick I was working on the railroad and think the hard work and exposure had run me down in health. I kept at my work for a time although I should have been in bed. I kept losing strength and became greatly reduced in weight. At last I had to give up and for two years I did nothing but sit around the house. During the following winter I was confined to my bed the greater part of the time. I suffered from gas on the stomach and could not eat anything without enduring intense pain. It seemed as though there was a pressure on my stomach. Later I had rheumatic pains in my arms and legs and was reduced in weight to 120 pounds."

"I was under the care of our home physicians but they did not benefit me in the least. After spending many dollars in medicines and getting no help I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I took several boxes and they benefited me so much that I could eat most anything without distress. I kept taking the pills until cured. I have worked hard ever since, weigh 170 pounds and am in good health."

If you are ill and the treatment you are taking does not cure you, write for proof of what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done in similar cases. Their merit has made them the most widely used family medicine in the world today. A valuable booklet, "What to Eat and How to Eat," containing information regarding the diet, will be sent free upon request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Baby Laugh

It belongs to health for a baby to eat and sleep, to laugh and grow fat.

But fat comes first; don't ask a scrawny baby to laugh; why, even his smile is pitiful. Fat comes first.

The way to be fat is the way to be healthy.

Scott's Emulsion

ROBBER BAND WAS FOOLED.

Revolutionists Attempt to Steal Treasure from Russian Ship.

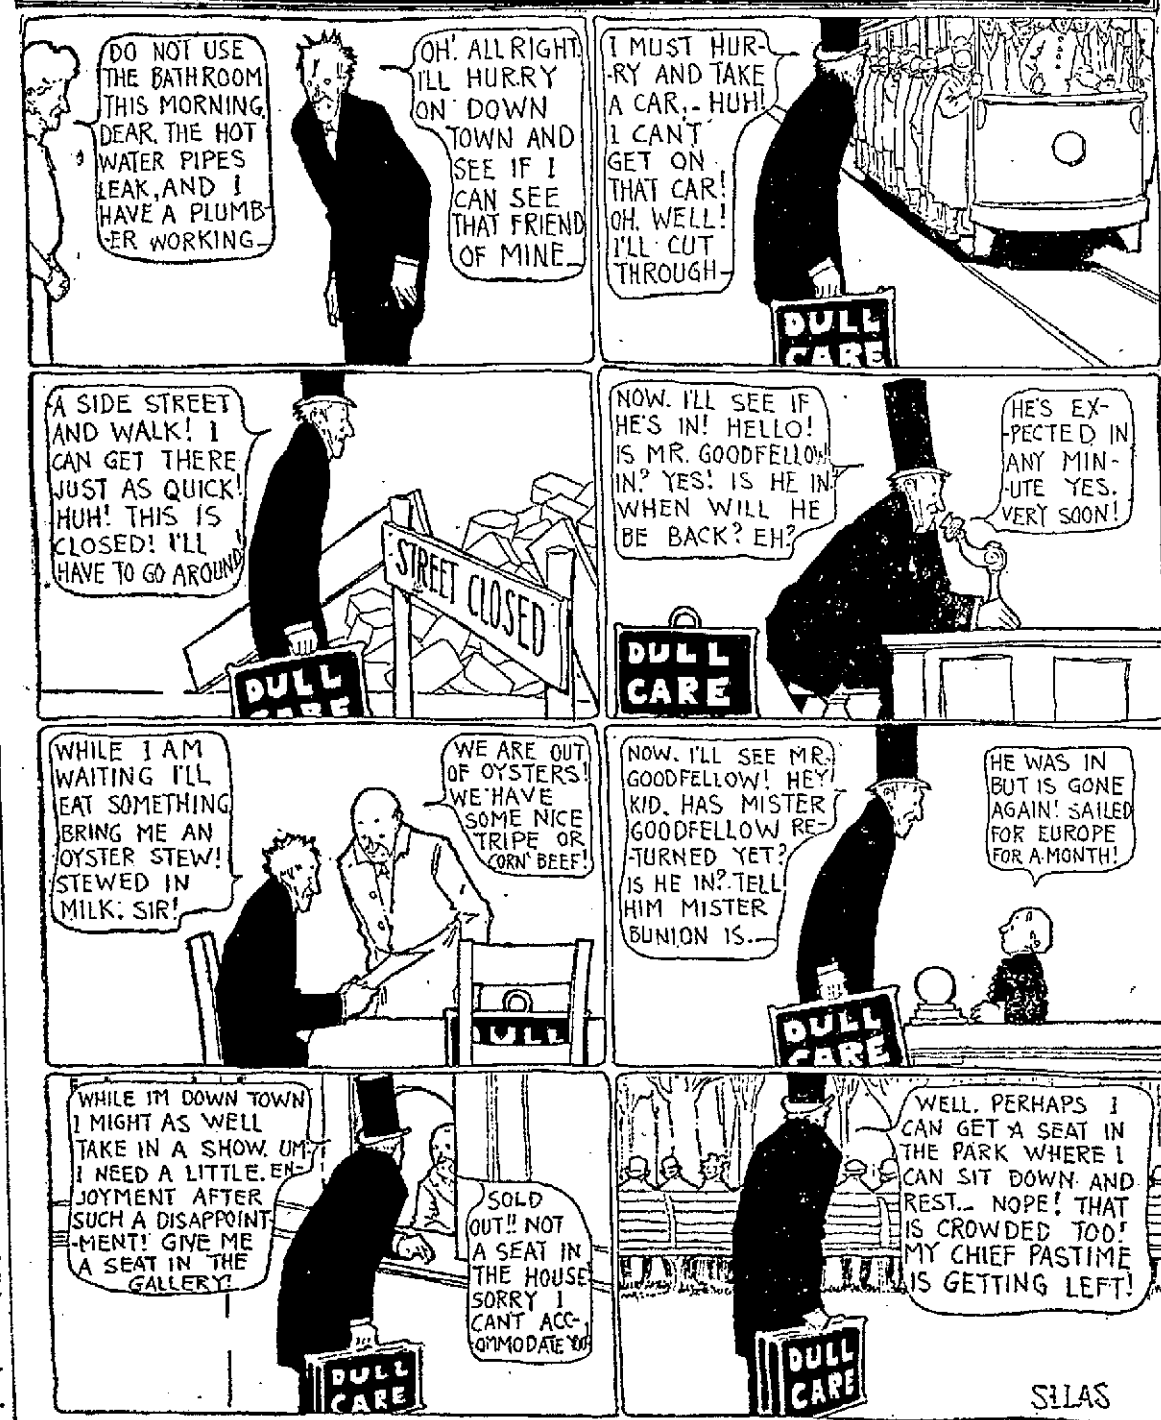

Baku, Russia, April 6.—A band of Georgian revolutionists failed by the narrowest of margins yesterday to seize the treasure on board a steamer trading in the Caspian and make their escape therewith into the Caucasus.

The steamer Czarevitch, with six hundred thousand dollars in specie on board, was about to sail from Krasnovodsk yesterday morning when the crew appeared on board and searched all the passengers. Among them they discovered and arrested the Georgian band, consisting of twenty armed men under the leadership of Lieutenant Mashkardzo, an officer of the reserves. It was the intention of the band to overpower the crew at sea, seize the treasure room, and land with the gold on the sparsely inhabited Caucasian coast.

The Czarevitch proceeded after a delay of five hours.

If you have backache and urinary troubles you should take Foley's Remedy to strengthen and build up the kidneys so they will act properly, as a serious kidney trouble may develop. Dreier & Bro.

Helen Gladys Emery, Her Mother and the Jap She Married.

HELEN GLADYS EMERY AND HER MOTHER, MRS. JOHN EMERY.

Miss Helen Gladys Emery, daughter of Archdeacon John Emery, of the Episcopal diocese of California, became the wife of Gunjiro Aoki, a Japanese, in Seattle, Wash., last Saturday.

The announcement of the engagement brought a storm of protest and the young woman answered the public clamor in a remarkable letter, in which she declared that she loved the Japanese and would marry him whatever might be thought or said.

In order to escape the California law, which prohibits such a union, Miss Emery traveled to Seattle with her mother and father, meeting with disapproving demonstrations at several stops. Mr. Aoki followed to Seattle and the ceremony was performed in Trinity church.

Mrs. Emery supported her daughter's resolution to marry the Japanese throughout. The father, however, opposed the plan, but was finally induced to be present at the marriage.

PREDICT BLOODY OUTBREAK.

Paris Newspapers See Grave Menace in Labor Meeting.

Paris, April 6.—The newspapers of Paris show general alarm this morning at the violent character of the speeches delivered at the workmen's meeting held in this city yesterday under the auspices of the revolutionary labor union to formulate a plan of campaign against the government.

They refer particularly to the willingness of the state employees to take common cause with them. Public opinion is rapidly becoming terrified, the papers declare, at the belief that a bloody insurrection is imminent and the statements of some of the speakers that the proletariat would neither fight nor work in the event of a war is regarded as a particularly alarming prediction.

WARRENDER WILL BE TOP OF BATTING ORDER

Manager Myers Has Practically Decided on This Point.

Dayton, O., April 6.—In casting about for a player to top his batting list this season, Manager Myers has practically decided upon Frank "Stum" Warrender as the man to lead off. In the first place he is an old hand and a good waffer and is some better and ought to manage to get on as often or oftener than any other player on the club.

Dick Bayless had the job last season and he beat out enough short batters to keep up his batting average aside from being able to get a big lead off first and to differ second. While Warrender is not as fleet-footed as Bayless he looks good this season and it is believed he can hold down the job satisfactorily.

The work of Roy Golden, who was secured at the close of last season from the Blue Grass league, marks him as a corner among the pitchers and in the exhibition games he has shown form enough to insure that he will get a good chance to prove his worth before he is disposed of. He pitched four innings in one of the exhibition games against Toledo and allowed the Armour crowd but two hits. In view of the fact that Toledo has been in training in the south and the club was made up of the men who were regular members of the team this season the performance was remarkably good.

If Barnett can hit he will make some one hustle for a regular job on the Old Soldier infield. The new fellow has played classy ball in the field ever since he reported to Manager Myers last Monday, and anyone who beats him out of a job will have to be mighty classy at handling ground-balls and winging the sphere across to first.

Barnett created an impression the first day he practiced at shortstop. In practice and against New York and Toledo he handled grassers cleanly and threw well.

The new man is also good at tagging runners. He takes a peg from the catcher and puts the ball on a would-be thief in fine style. He has tagged all the runners who have tried to steal in the two exhibition games at Fairview this spring. He in the game with the New York seconds and two in the Toledo game Sunday.

Smith, from the Texas State league, is touted as a fine shortstop. If Barnett can show something good with the stick, Smith will have to hustle. In two games Barnett has been up eight times and got one bingle.

We often wonder how any person can be persuaded into taking anything but Foley's Honey and Tar for coughs, colds and lung trouble. Do not be fooled into accepting "own make" or other substitutes. The genuine contains no harmful drugs and is in a yellow package. Dreier & Bro.

VANDALIA LINES SHOW FALLING OFF IN EARNINGS

President Attributes Loss to Federal and State Legislation.

The annual meeting of the Vandalia, a Pennsylvania line, is being held in Terre Haute today. President Joseph Wood, presiding. The latter's report of the business of 1908 shows a loss of $1,470,516.97, from the figures of 1907. The expenditures were reduced $1,218,335.75, however, bringing the net loss down to $252,180. Although the increase in number of passengers carried during the year 1908 was 18,786 over the preceding year, the gross earnings from this source was short $155,184.08 of the earnings of 1907, being a decrease of 2.12 per cent. This President Wood said, is the result of state and federal enactments, such as prescribing hours of labor of trainmen and operators and the number of trainmen in crews and fixing the passenger rates and the rate of compensation for carrying the mails. The Vandalia railroad company now operates 429.35 miles of road. There are 36.25 miles of double track and third tracks of 8.34 miles length, while the company's sidings aggregate 336.24 miles, making the total trackage 1,295.25 miles. The company owns 265 locomotives, 141 passenger cars, 7,457 freight cars and 153 miscellaneous cars, its equipment having a total book value of $5,531,041.20. The company has ordered more equipment, yesterday placing an order for 205 freight cars as follows: Fifty-two steel hoppers and 50 gondola cars from the Cambria Steel company; 72 box cars from the American Car and Foundry company and 31 stock cars from the Standard Steel Car company, of Pittsburgh. The cars to be built by the latter will be turned out of the Butler, Pa., plant. This is the first order that has been placed by the Vandalia for more than a year. This road has comparatively few idle freight cars and locomotives at present.

The stockholders held a meeting in the Union station in Terre Haute this morning. The following directors were elected:

John C. Williams, Indianapolis; Charles H. Seybt, Highland, Ill.; J. J. Brooks, Pittsburg; Benjamin McKee, St. Louis.

Following this meeting the directors met and elected officers as follows:

Joseph Wood, president of the Vandalia, Pittsburg; J. J. Turner, Pittsburg, vice president; E. D. Taylor, Pittsburg, second vice president; D. McCabe, Pittsburg, third vice president; T. E. McKnight, treasurer; R. E. Thompson, Terre Haute, assistant treasurer; S. B. Liggett, secretary; S. H. Church, assistant secretary; J. R. Renner, controller.

They left Terre Haute at 1:30 for Fort Wayne to look over this section of the road. Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock the stockholders met at the Peoria and Terre Haute line will meet at Decatur.

OPTIMISM AT CANTON.

Manufacturers in That Ohio City Have Many Orders.

Supt. Harry Fisher, of the Bass Foundry and Machine company, was at Canton, Ohio, yesterday in the interest of the company and he reports business with most of the manufacturers in that industrial center very good and the feeling regarding future business decidedly optimistic. Mr. Fisher spent several hours at the big

Pain Weakens

Headache, rheumatism, neuralgia, or pains of any nature weaken the system—they are a strain upon the nerves. Almost instant relief can be obtained by taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, and without any bad after-effects. Take one on first indication of an attack—it will ward it off. They are a pleasant little tablet, sold by druggists everywhere, 25 doses 25 cents; never sold in bulk.

"I was subject to constant headaches for a period of four years. At times I was almost unable to do the work in which I am engaged, that of station agent. Through the advice of a friend I tried Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, and the result has been that I have entirely eradicated my system of these continuous headaches that follow a continual strain. They have done for me all that is claimed for them."

O. L. RUSSELL, Art. C. & N. W. Ry., Battle Creek, Mich.

"I have used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for a year now for neuralgia and find that it is nothing like them. They surely have been a blessing to me."

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Supt. J. C. Sullivan, of the Wabash, spent the night in the city.

Walter A. Barrett is in Mentone today on business for the Bass company.

John Hecke is absent from the Bass blacksmith shop today on account of sickness.

The daughter of Night Caller Henry Ehlenke, of the Nickel Plate, is very sick with pneumonia.

Eugene C. McGraw, late of Jersey City, has taken a position as switchman in the Nickel Plate yards.

Roy Likens, machinist helper at the Wabash shops, is on duty again after an absence on account of an injured arm.

Machinist William Fitzgerald, who had been sick a month, reported for duty at the Pennsylvania shops this morning.

M. J. Meyers, B. Volz, Herman Limbach, A. P. Mueller and T. J. Errington, Pennsylvania shopmen, are sick and off duty.

Nickel Plate Fireman J. E. Beach has had his lay off point transferred from Stony Island to Fort Wayne, this city being his home.

Conductor Frank Maxwell, of the Nickel Plate, has taken a lay off for the purpose of accompanying Mrs. Maxwell to Chicago on a visit.

Mrs. J. H. Hobrock, of Decatur, who had been visiting her son, M. H. Hobrock, of the Pennsylvania shops, left for her home this morning.

C. E. Downing, for the past five years residing on a farm, has returned to the city and resumed his old position as brakeman on the Nickel Plate.

Incoming Wabash passenger train No. 13 was delayed over an hour by an accident to the engine at Defiance. An engine from this city was sent to the rescue.

Friendship lodge, No. 70, International Association of Machinists, added nine names to the membership roll last night, most of the applicants being employees of the Wabash.

August Kuhlback, messenger in the Pennsylvania master mechanic's office, is sick today and that duty is being performed by Walter Adams, of the machine shop.

Daniel Davis, chemist at the Bass foundry, has returned from Jackson, Ohio, where he was called a few days ago to see his brother, who was very sick. The patient is better.

Engineer Charles Bronsmeler has reported for duty on the Nickel Plate after spending a week in Cleveland. Fireman Emory Doty has also reported for work on that road, after a visit with friends at Dawkins.

James Tryball, of the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop, went to Huntington this morning to attend the funeral of Mrs. Thomas Daltry, an old friend, which took place this afternoon. Mr. Daltry, the husband, died about a year ago. He was a foreman at the Erie shops a number of years.

Machinist Fred Mennewisch and Boilermaker Henry Geerken are making an inspection of the pumping stations and other plants wherein are boilers and machinery used on the Western division of the Pennsylvania. The work will consume about two weeks.

Thomas Conway, a Nickel Plate fireman, will be off duty a few days as a result of slipping and falling from his engine while in the round house getting ready to take his run out. W. J. Keiker, also a fireman, is off duty on account of sickness, the attack coming on while he was at Bellevue.

John Diers, of South Bend, representative of the Indiana Car Service association, was in the city today, calling at the several freight houses. Mr. Diers says there is an improvement in the business conditions in northern Indiana as indicated by the reports of the freight agents at the leading cities in his territory.

Features of the meeting of the Barbers' union last night were the allowance of a death benefit to the family of the deceased member, Ed Rayburn, a sick benefit allowance to a member in Colorado, the initiation of an applicant and the receipt of the transfer card of Samuel Kenner, who came here from Danville to work at his trade.

No. 2302, one of the big freight engines put in service on the Wheeling and Lake Erie road when that property was controlled by the Wabash company, passed through the city this morning en route to Decatur, where it will be turned over to the Springfield division for service. There were thirty or more of these engines sent to the W. & L. E. two years ago and nearly all have been returned to the owners, the Wabash.

Bellevue Gazette: "The passenger department of the Pennsylvania railroad has completed arrangements for the running of a special solid Pullman train from Alliance through to Denver, Col., on July 1, account of the meeting of the National Education association. Space has already been reserved by about 100 passengers and a number from this vicinity are expected to make the trip. The crew of Nickel Plate passenger train No. 4, which left Bellevue at 12:20 Sunday morning, found the corpse of a man who is supposed to have been Albert Inman, of Ashabula, lying along the track at Elk Creek, Pa. The man had been killed by a train."

Theodore D. Becker, formerly manager of the Becker Paper company in this city but now connected with the St. Elmo Cigar company in Detroit, is making a business visit in the city today.

Life of a Pimple

Complexions Are Cleared and Pimples Disappear Overnight Without Trouble.

The dispensers of posam, a new skin discovery, ask that you be given that no one is urged to purchase it without first obtaining an experimental package. Those who have tried it will find that the fifty-cent box on sale at Meyer Brothers' and all drug stores, is sufficient to cure the worst cases of eczema, where the surface affected is not too large. The itching ceases on first application. It will also cure acne, tetter, blotches, scaly scalp, hives, barbers' and every other form of itch, including itching feet. Being flesh-colored and containing no grease, the presence of posam on exposed surfaces, such as the face and hands, is not perceptible. Water and soap cannot be used in connection with it, as these irritate and prolong skin troubles, sometimes even causing them.

As to the experimental package of posam, it can be had free of charge by mail from the Emergency Laboratories, 22 West Twenty-fifth Street, New York. It is sufficient to clear the complexion overnight, and to rid the face of pimples in twenty-four hours.

NOW IN NEW GARB.

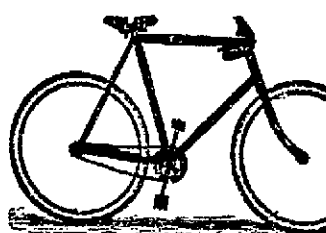

Variation Introduced in Old Fort Wayne Interurban Project.

Goshen, Ind., April 6.—According to press dispatches there is a movement now on foot to have a traction line in operation between Fort Wayne and Chicago before the end of the present year. It is said that Chicago capitalists are back of the scheme and that J. J. Burns, the man who built the road from Goshen to Elkhart, is interested in promoting the line. It is also said the money has already been raised.

The Chicagoans have been spending much time at Syracuse negotiating with Joseph P. Dolan, who several months ago bought up the assets of the Huntington and Goshen line. The promoters of the Fort Wayne and South Bend line seek to come into possession of the property which Dolan purchased at the low price of about $6,000 at sheriff's sale. Between eight and nine miles of the property picked up by Dolan is graded and stone bridges are in place. It is the intention of the promoters to run the line from Fort Wayne through Chubbuck, Vawter Park, Benton and Goshen. It is expected that there will be further developments within a few days, as it is understood that interested parties have declared that by the middle of summer the road will be in operation from Vawter Park to Goshen.

THE SECRET OUT.

"What made my lovely complexion? I do not like to tell, for it was medicine, but the nicest woman ever took. It was Lane's Family Medicine that did it. THIRD VICTIM OF A MURDER TRAIL IN OLD LAW CASE

Pope Hill, Attorney, is Assassinated in Office at McRae, Ga.

McRae, Ga., April 6.—That Pope Hill, a Macon attorney, is the third victim of an assassin in the now celebrated Dodge land case, is the belief of the authorities of this county. The coroner's jury yesterday afternoon declared that Hill was murdered by parties unknown.

Hill was found dead in the office of a local attorney at 7 o'clock yesterday, a bullet in his brain and a revolver, with one chamber discharged, in his right hand. The condition of the office indicated a struggle. The stove had been turned over, the coal scuttle was crushed and the furniture was broken. On the floor lay an unfinished court motion in the Dodge case, drawn by the dead lawyer, which he came here to file.

Hill arrived Sunday noon and went to friend's law office to work on the case. A little while later he went to the home of the proprietor of a hardware store and said he had received some threatening letters and wanted a revolver. He was so insistent that the hardware man opened the store and sold Hill the revolver which was found clamped in his hand.

Not Seen Alive Again. Hill returned to the office and was not seen alive again. His body was found on the floor and he had been dead several hours. The bullet had pierced his right eye and entered the brain. From blood-stains on the wall, he must have been shot while standing up.

The first idea of suicide seemed contradicted by the fact that there were no powder burns on his face and that there was every indication of a struggle in the office which apparently began while Hill was in the middle of the work of preparing his motion for the court.

When his body was searched a note addressed to him at Macon was found. It was written in a childish hand, and said:

"Pope Hill—The next time you interfere with our settlement you will be broke."

Received Other Threats. The authorities believe that Hill received other threats after he arrived here Sunday which impelled him to buy the revolver. It was found, too, that after his arrival he wired to a woman in Warrenton, Ga., regretting that he could not spend Sunday with her, but promising to call on her later in the week.

He was interested in the case which was to have come up yesterday, and had spent much time in preparation.

The trial of deaths and injuries in the Dodge land suit began in 1891. In that year John C. Forsythe, who represented the N. W. Dodge estate, was assassinated. After a six weeks' trial five men were sent to prison for life for the crime.

Soon after this Lucius Williams, one of the claimant's lawyers, was killed, and for weeks the entire county was in a state of great excitement.

Since then there have been numerous encounters growing out of the case, in which the participants received gunshot or stab wounds.

The Dodge lands cover 400,000 acres in Pulaski, Dodge, Telfair and Lawrence counties. The title rested on some ancient land grants, and, since 1882, there has been continuous litigation over their ownership. Many squatters settled on different parts and there was trouble every time an eviction was attempted. The Dodge heirs were kept busy protecting their title and disposing of squatters.

Pope Hill had been retained to represent a new client whose name has not been made known and when he arrived here Sunday he carried certain documents and deeds, which he proposed to offer to the court yesterday to sustain his client's claim. During the last few years he has made a special study of this case and has been over almost every acre of the land. The case seemed nearly settled recently, and then the new claimant appeared.

Hill was 40 years old, was a member of the law firm of Harris & Harris, and leaves a wife and one child. His friends and business associates are employing detectives.

Earthquake's Work in Messina Cathedral

INTERIOR OF MESSINA'S RUINED CATHEDRAL.

This recently taken photograph gives an excellent idea of the effects of the great earthquake in Messina. It is a picture of the altar place of the Cathedral, left in a mass of ruins. This altar piece cost 1,000,000 francs. Much of the building dates from medieval times, but the altar was of modern construction. It was the repository of the celebrated letter written by the Virgin Mary to the Messina, since proved to have been a forgery uttered in the sixteenth century and ascribed to Constantine Lascaris.

MR. BOWSER TOO GOOD

Acted Part of Good Samaritan and Suffered Thereby.

AIDED WOMAN IN DISTRESS.

Touched His Sympathetic Heart, but at the Cost of His Watch, Pin and a Wallet—Wife Called Him Easy Mark and Innocent Babe.

(Copyright, 1909, by T. C. McClure.)

MR. BOWSER has a program for coming home from the office which seldom varies. He leaves the office at a certain minute; he rushes for a car; he catches it or perishes in the attempt; he secures a seat or does likewise. There are times when he escapes a row with conductor or passenger, but they occur only at long intervals. Five blocks before he reaches his street he begins to crowd out on the platform. Sometimes he is elbowed in return and asked if there are bristles on his back, and sometimes people simply swear at him under their breath. He demands that the car be brought to a full stop. When he has descended he remembers that he has left his evening paper on the seat and pushes his way back to get it. He is finally free, but as a rule, has something to say to the conductor and is answered back in language appropriate to the occasion.

The other night, when the usual hour arrived and there was no Bowser, Mrs. Bowser began to wonder. Ten minutes later she was anxious. When twenty minutes had passed she thought of mangled remains lying in the middle of the street. Just half an hour had been ticked off by the clock when he unlocked the front door to hear her exclaim:

"So you are here at last! I was never so worried in my life!"

"Yes; I am a little late," he answered as he hung up his overcoat.

"A little late! Good gracious, what's happened?"

As Mr. Bowser turned to her she saw that he had a cut lip, a bloody ear and a swelling eye and that what few hairs he had on his head were lying around in a most bewildering fashion. It was evident that the Gatun dam on the Panama canal had given way at last.

"I don't care about any dinner," he said as he made for the sitting room.

"I SAW A WOMAN STANDING IN A DOORWAY."

"You may get the camphor and witch hazel and some rags and fix me up. Maybe I'll have an appetite later on."

"But what has happened to you?" she insisted.

"Just a little incident hardly worth mentioning. No use to talk so loud and get the cook all excited."

She brought out the medicine chest and got out what was wanted, and as she began binding up the hurts she said:

"Now tell me all about it. Were you dragged by a street car?"

"Of course not. I was coming home all right when I remembered that I had no cigars in the house. I got off to get some."

"And the car suddenly started?"

"I told you the car had nothing to do with it. It may have suddenly started, or it may have hung around there for half an hour. Am I going to have a black eye?"

Wasn't Kicked by a Horse.

"Yes, and a bad one. You'll have to wear a green patch over it for at least two weeks. You didn't get kicked by a horse, did you?"

"How silly you talk, Mrs. Bowser! What would I be doing with my eye against a horse's head?"

"Then go on and tell me about it. This ear looks as if a bulldog had hung on to it."

"Well," he said after getting up to look at the ear in the mirror and sitting down again, "I had got the cigars and started to walk the rest of the way home when I saw a woman standing in a doorway. I could tell by her attitude that she was scared."

"But you came right along about your business?"

"No, ma'am; I didn't. I stopped right then and there about my business. Her attitude appealed to me. I saw that she was in trouble. I walked up to her and asked her what the matter was."

"And of course she burst into tears at once?" sneered Mrs. Bowser.

"There was no bursting about it. She was already crying. She told me that she had been followed and insulted by a scoundrel."

"Oh! I see!"

"If you see, then you stop right there. I won't have it. She was a perfect lady, and I'd have been a loafer not to have listened to her. Just such an event is liable to happen to you any evening."

"But she could have appealed to the police."

"There were no police around. They had all gone off to funerals or something else."

"Well, go on."

"She lived three blocks away, and she asked me to escort her home. She was trembling all over, and I never pitied a woman more. She said the man was a divorced husband and he had actually threatened her life. What could I do but escort her home?"

"You could have come along about your business and let some one else play the gay Lothario."

"There you are! That's you to a dot! Mrs. Bowser, I hope that the next time you go to church in the evening a big loafer will try to carry you off in his arms. You are so hard hearted that you have no mercy on your own sex. Why, if I hadn't offered my escort I should have been put down as a coward and a cur."

"Very well. You butted in, and what happened?"

"I walked along beside her to her home. She was so weak and trembled that I had to sustain her all the way. I didn't know but I'd have to call an ambulance."

"Well, you got her home?"

"Yes. And then I went in to light the gas for her and to see if the fellow was lurking around. He might be waiting there to cut her throat, you know. She didn't come in, but sat on the step all the while."

"Go on."

"Well, the fellow was there. The hall was dark, and I had only got in when he jumped on me and inflicted these hurts before I was aware of his presence. I rallied after a minute, and I think he is in a hospital by this time."

"And the perfect lady out on the steps—she didn't mix in?" asked Mrs. Bowser.

"I think she screamed."

"But you are not sure?"

"No-o-o."

"And she had gone when you finally got out of the hall?"

"Yes."

"That's all. Shall I send over for a chicken and make you some broth?"

"Chicken? What in thunder do I want of chicken broth?"

"Oh, if you don't want it to steady your nerves for the shock to come, all right!"

"Woman, don't let your jealousy make you talk like an idiot. I saved that lady's life. There's no doubt of it. I got hurt a little in doing it, but what man would not have run the risk? I shall not be in the least ashamed of my black eye. I think, however, I'll go over to the drug store and get something stronger than witch hazel. What are you grinning about?"

"Nothing. I happened to have a funny thought."

Robbed the Good Samaritan.

"Humph! You'd better have a few thoughts in favor of your own sex. Well, I'll go over to the store. The cook can clear off the table. I'll be back in ten minutes, but I shan't want any dinner."

He was back in far less. He had just taken his overcoat off the hook when he uttered a shout that fetched Mrs. Bowser and the cat on a run.

"What is it? What's the matter?"

"My watch is gone!"

"It can't be!"

"And my pin?"

"You don't say!"

"And my wallet!"

"Good heavens!"

"Yes, even my keys!" shouted Mr. Bowser as he continued to search his pockets.

Mrs. Bowser caught him as he went limp and led him back to the lounge and laid him down and fanned him.

"How—how did I lose them?" he finally asked in the voice of a man that had been sick for three months.

"Oh, that's easy to explain. They were taken by the perfect lady and her divorced husband. You were the easy mark they were laying for, you know. Poor, innocent babe! I always said you were too good for this world."

OUR SHORT STORY PAGE

MY ROMANCE

BY OWEN &
OLIVER
COPYRIGHT 1908 BY DENZEL HAMPTON

A STORY WRITER is never what you expect from his writings. I have come to the conclusion that the writer is not to blame for this. A man is not easy to find. I did not find myself till a year ago, and then it was through a book of mine.

It was my fourth novel, "John Dormer," which set me thinking. I was continually going over the scenes between Felicia and John. And suddenly the truth dawned upon me, John Dormer was myself; and he had done what I wanted to do.

The main point, and the point of likeness to myself is that John was a prosperous, practical man of forty, unsuspected of sentiment even by himself. In a moment of self-analysis he discovered that his prosperity did not content him; that all his life he had hungered for romance; and he went out from his countinghouse into the world and found—her!

I did not quite reach the point of owing to myself that I wanted romance, or expected to find "her." I put it that I desired to get outside the four walls of my study and "see life"; to travel and learn to know the world.

A few years earlier I could not have taken such a trip, if I had wished to; but now there was no reason why I should not. Five years before I could not have afforded it. Eighteen months back I could not have left my two little children. (I was a widower.) But now I was well to do, thanks to the spinings of my brain, and I had no uneasiness in leaving the children with the charming lady who presided over my house. She was not very old—about twenty-eight—but she was very capable. She was goodness itself to my little ones; and it was their fondness for her which had induced me to ask her to come and take care of them, when her worthless husband died, and left her penniless; that and my desire to help her, and my liking for her.

"You will understand, Beatrice," I said—I had known her since she was a child, "that I don't wish you to be just a superior housekeeper, or a head nurse. I want you to be a—let us say a young aunt, or a big sister, to the children; to be the lady of the house, and make the house a home for them. So you must make the house your home too, and feel at liberty to enjoy yourself. Will you come and see if you can be happy with us?"

"How kind you are!" she had cried. "Indeed I will come! And I will make it a happy home for them; and for myself!"—she held out her hand with her pretty smile—"and for you."

She had kept her word, and made us all very contented and comfortable. The children ran about at her skirts and adored her. The servants competed to please her—she was one of those women who are fond of servants, and make their servants fond of them—and I found her a companion to me, as well as to the children. She took as keen an interest in my affairs as if they were her own, and saved me every labor that she could take upon herself. She kept my accounts and made out the checks for me, and even entered up the records of my stories, and wrote business letters for me. I proposed to give her a power of attorney to manage my affairs while I was away. She frowned and pursed her lips when I suggested it; but after a moment she smilingly consented.

"I am rather frightened," she owned; "but, of course, I shouldn't like you to choose anyone else instead. I shall do my best. And you won't grumble. You never do."

"You never give me the chance," I said. "Thank you!"

"It is I who have to thank you," she insisted. "I—I do, you know."

So it was settled; and I arranged to go first to South Africa, by the Union-Castle Line; and then back to Marseilles by the East Coast route; and then to take a trip round the Mediterranean home.

Beatrice brought the children—Bob was eight and Elsa was six—to Southampton to see me off. My last recollection was of her buttoning up Bob's overcoat—there was a cold wind—and putting a wrap over Elsa, and then standing with one arm round each, as the ship moved away.

"God bless them!" I muttered. "All three of them!—If I met a woman like her!—Well, now for life!"

I did not like to say "romance"; but that was what I meant. In plain English I intended to marry again, if I found the right woman; the woman who is in all my tales. She is always the same—the lover and comrade of the man. That is all that matters.

But it matters very much, and I meant to make quite sure that I had found just this woman, before I married her. I had made one mistake which had blighted the best years of my life, and I was determined that I would not make another. I was no longer a boy to be carried away by a pretty face and a touch of moonlight, I told myself. I could weigh a woman in the balance; and I would—before I fell too far in love with her.

In the earlier portion of the voyage I weighed Miss Marvyn; the first really clever woman I had ever met. She had traveled much, and read much, and thought much, and colored it all with her original and kindly personality; she was good-looking and good-humored. But she was—at any rate outwardly—less soft-hearted than I liked a woman to be; and she did not care for music or for children. My idea of her received a blow when she sang flat at the second Sunday's service—Beatrice was a delightful singer and had rather spoiled me. The ideal was killed when she shrugged her shoulders at my playing so much with the children on board.

The second lady to be weighed was Mrs. Richards; or rather I think she weighed me. She was a soft, smiling little widow, who loved to have the babies round her, and stitch away at rag dolls and dolls' clothes for them. She played everyone's accompaniments, and, though she always said that she had no voice—and hadn't—she sang plaintive songs so delightfully that you never thought about the voice, only the singing. But when I asked her to sing one song, she put it aside, with a sad little smile.

"That song is dead," she said, "with something else in me. We became great friends—after that; and I told her more about myself than I had ever told anybody—even the reason of my travels—and she looked at the stars—it was a warm tropical night—and nodded."

"You see," she said, clasping and unclasping her hands, "I am not good at expressing myself, but you just love some one—or you don't. I don't think it is any use looking for a particular ideal. Some day you may find some one perhaps, and—she may be quite different, but—she will alter your ideal so easily, ask wasn't what I expected before I knew him; or even when I thought that I did—but—I cannot make up stories like you can; and I expect it will sound ridiculous to you, but—but I make up one little story so often. I think that Heaven is just—a gate in a lane—where it begins; and I find Jack waiting there; and he says—'You've been a confounded long time coming, old girl; but I know you'd come all right.' He'll never worry about my thinking of anyone else. Never! And I know he's waiting there; forgetting with his mustache as he always did, if he was kept waiting—"

She looked up at the stars and smiled; and I knew that I had learned one lesson, at least, by coming out of my study.

After that I abandoned the deliberate quest of romance.

I spent a pleasant week at Cape Town, at the Queen's Hotel—and began to wonder whether romance was coming to me in the shape of one—I wasn't sure which—of three bonny sisters; jolly, unaffected girls, half Dutch and half English, born to make happy homes for some lucky fellows, as I have no doubt they have or will. But, when the English mail arrived, I understood how little these nice women really mattered to me. Beatrice had sent an amateur photo of the children and herself; and when I put it beside a snapshot of the ladies at the Queen's, she looked like a race horse beside cart horses. They weren't common-looking girls either. It was simply that she had set my ideals a terribly high standard. She was such a pretty, graceful woman.

The children's letters made me feel very homesick. Bob's was written by himself, "but arny rouled thee lines." They called Beatrice "auntie."

"THEN YOU IS A DOOSE," AUNTIE! ELSA CRIED.

Elsa's hand had been guided; but Beatrice assured me in her pleasant letter that the composition was Elsa's own. "You may feel quite sure," she concluded, "that the children are well and happy, and that you will find everything right on your return home. I hope you are finding your temporary habitations as comfortable as home. I am mean enough to hope not more comfortable!"

I wrote and assured her that no place could be so comfortable as she had made home for all of us.

After that I went up country for a fortnight, but did not find friends and became very dull and lonely. If there is a place in the world where one needs human companionship, it is South Africa.

During that dreary fortnight I seemed to dwell in a world aloof, coming nearest to companionship with a broken-down man of seven languages who was head waiter at a hotel. "The Transvaal is the best place in the world," he told me, "for leaving!" I took his advice and went on to Natal two days earlier than I had intended, so as to arrive there as soon as the mail, I had two weeks' mails at once; two pairs of dear little letters from the children, two batches of papers from Beatrice and two long double letters from her; for she wrote separately about business and home affairs. "So, you see," the last one concluded, "I am managing all right. It is a great pleasure to manage things for you. I always remember that you have given me, not a situation, but a home. Thank you!"

After that my voyage to Europe seemed only the means to an end. As I met my letters I became more and more impatient to be home again. On the way from Egypt to Marseilles my impatience became positively worrying; and when I reached Marseilles, and received my letters there—one in faltering round hand, and one "guided," and two from Beatrice—I cut out the Mediterranean cruise and went straight home overland.

I was going to telegraph at first, but I decided to take them by surprise, as an additional pleasure. I arrived at the house at three in the afternoon, and walked round the back to the French windows unobserved. Then I heard voices and peeped in. Beatrice was sitting in the drawing-room, with Elsa squeezed in the armchair beside her, and Bob leaning against her knees, telling them a story. The children looked bonny, but Beatrice seemed a trifle pale and thin, though she looked prettier than ever. I always considered her the prettiest woman I knew. I was afraid that she had been overworked and worried; and my heart went out to her with a warmth that I had never felt in my play at romance.

"The dear woman!" I thought. "How sweet she is!"

The story was about two little children, "such nice little children," who had "a very dear daddy"; and he went away and came home. It was delightful to hear her fresh voice, and to watch her face while she told it.

"When he came," she said, opening her eyes and holding up her hands, "he brought them fourteen presents; one from every place he had been to"—I had told her that I intended that. "Just fancy! Fourteen lovely, foreign, funny presents!"

"And fourteen for their auntie," Bob suggested.

"No-o," she demurred, with her fingers to her lips. "An auntie couldn't expect so many as that; but I dare say he brought her some, because—no knew that she did her best. He was a very kind daddy, and he loved the little children very much."

"Didn't he love their auntie too?" Elsa inquired.

Beatrice laughed a funny little laugh. (How I like that laugh of hers!)

"Did she love him?" Bob wanted to know.

"Bob," said Beatrice, "that's six questions since I began this story; and five are enough for any little boy. Let's go out to the park and feed the swans."

They jumped up; and then Elsa saw me and gave a scream of delight; and I gave a shout and ran in. The children rushed at me and caught hold of me; and so did Beatrice. She was very flushed and pleased and smiling. Her eyes blinked a little too.

"You dear daddy!" the children cried.

"I am so glad," Beatrice said.

"You dear children!" I cried and hugged them.

"And you dear woman!" I added. I squeezed her hand for a long while; and she grew pink.

"How many presents, dad?" the children demanded, pulling at my jacket.

"There will be fifteen each," I said, "when I've bought those for the places I didn't go to after all. Some are coming afterwards; but I've brought four each in my bag."

"That's one more than auntie said," Bob pronounced.

"Auntie is a goose," I stated. "She left out one place—home! The best place of all—since auntie came to us." I looked at Beatrice and she dropped her eyes. I couldn't remember where I had found that look before; and then I discovered. She was—Felicia!

"That was—goosey," Bob agreed; "but auntie isn't a goose, because—he considered—because she's handsome."

"She is!" I agreed.

"Oh, you sillies!" she cried.

"She said," Elsa began, "she acknowledged that you didn't—"

"Elsa!" Beatrice cried, and grabbed at her, but she dodged behind me with a laughing scream.

"She flunked you didn't love her!" Elsa concluded.

"Ah!" I said. "But I do!"

And in a moment my arm was round Beatrice, and her head was on my shoulder. I could only kiss a pink ear.

"Then you is a doose, auntie!" Elsa cried, and clapped her chubby hands.

"Yes," she agreed. "I'm a goose—such a happy one!"

Our hands closed together tightly; and I knew that I had gone hunting the world for my romance—and all the while the sweetest romance, since the world began, was waiting for me at home.

"There are those," she said shamefacedly, for her quick breathing almost denied the words, "there are those who are so fond of contentment that they fear to risk for happiness."

"There are those," he said, "who do not know themselves."

"Madame does not like the soup?" asked Pierre, frowning a little.

The dinner was good—so good that she was conscious of enjoying it as she had not done for months. And the company was good—so good that she remembered each and every face afterwards. And the music was good—so good that, after every body had joined in the choruses and several others had been persuaded to give solos, she to her surprise, rose and sang a Christmas carol in a way that won the applause of the evening.

"I feel now," she said, "as though I had discovered a new country. I—I wish I had something to do in it. Tell me more of the work you are planning. I—I guess I must do my work at second hand."

He told her quite simply at first, but with such growing interest that she began to feel as though she really did have a part in it.

And then David choking back words he felt he scarcely had the right to utter, exclaimed out of a full heart:

"How you could help a man!"

Her heart began to pound in a quite surprising manner. The whole world seemed to snap out of the darkness. The blood leaped to her cheeks—the strength to her arms.

"How I would try!" she answered.

"Marion, could you? Can you dream dreams and fight for dreams and love for dreams?"

"Yes," she said, "And to make them come true, as you have made Christmas come true to me."

And after he found her hand there was really little more left to be said.

"When I came here," she confessed, "I thought I had a mighty problem on my hands. And—it isn't a problem at all! I have found that I—I belong to the first generation, David."

"God bless you," he said, half choking.

As they rose, all those remaining in the room rose, too, after the manner of the guests at "Le Petit Oiseau," and wished them a "Happy New Year." But it was Pierre who knew. He knew, when, as he was putting on Monsieur's coat, the latter turned and said:

"I shall come here no more alone, Pierre."

The First Generation

By FREDERICK ORION BARTLETT

THE bell tingled and a maid brought in the card of Robert Wainwright. A few touches of her hair and dress, a hurried glance in the mirror, and Marion was standing before him, hand outstretched. As they faced one another, it was clear to be seen that she was easily in control. Yet she met him with an eagerness which he detected and reflected in his dark eyes.

In a few moments she was bundled from head to foot and all the opportunity the sharp wind had at her was in the few steps from the door to the carriage. Even then it had to pass Wainwright first, who clung to her arm as though fearing she might be blown away into space.

That was one thing he always made her conscious of—protection. Sitting there by her side in the carriage he somehow impressed upon her—with almost needless insistence—that so far as man could, he would always stand between her and all things disagreeable. Oftentimes this extended to the point where it irritated her.

She broke several dangerous silences with laughing nothings and so reached the house safely—safe from the crisis that menaced her. Once she swept through the door into the music and laughter and chatter, she seemed to blend herself with it and lose all sense of self.

She had always liked his people, better than she liked his friends. As she crossed the room to meet them, she felt a little thrill of satisfaction. She was glad to be there. But this gladness was apart from Robert himself; it was associated with that first generation, with that thickest father and his tense, willful lips; with the kindly mother with her patient, loyal face.

Both of them greeted her affectionately, and she stood there by their sides for a moment enjoying the music, listening to the rustle of silken skirts, soothed by the sight of the heavy curtains and soft pictures, by the lights and perfumes and sparkle of jewels. It was to her, for the moment, as though she had never seen all this before. It came in upon her with initial pliancy. It was only when Mrs. Wainwright, while the gentlemen were at their cigars, sat down beside her that she was at all conscious of being in Robert's home.

"Your gown is quite the prettiest here," whispered the mother.

The girl would have resented the compliment from anyone else. As it was, she blushed prettily with pleasure.

"I think it must have gathered something from mother," she said frankly. "It is made over from her wedding gown."

"Ah!" sighed Mrs. Wainwright, "that is the trouble in having sons—no women can't live over our youth again in them."

The girl leaned forward with sudden interest. "You must have had a beautiful youth, Mrs. Wainwright."

"Yes, dear. It is pleasant to look back upon it now. But there were many bare places along the road—many times when the clouds hung low."

"But you fought your way on—struggled and won."

"Ben and I," she corrected.

"And that is the beauty of it! It is what must make all this seem so good to you now."

Her eyes had brightened and her mouth grown tense. She heard the mother saying:

"You, my dear, will have no bare places in your life. We, of the first generation, have all our recompense in looking on at the lives of our children. The thought that Ben and I may have suffered a little for others brings a new pleasure to us now."

The girl impulsively placed her soft fingers upon the withered hand.

"I would rather have had your life than any I know of," she said.

On the ride back it was still the face of the mother which was uppermost in her mind. Robert was very tender of her, but she felt not the slightest sense of intimacy with him. She perceived all his overtures with the keenness of one fighting back the inevitable. But as they stood before the fire in her own home again, he broke through her guard.

"Marion," he said, "it is useless to pretend any more; I love you. I—I think you have known it a long time, haven't you?"

"Yes," she answered.

"And you love me—a little?"

"I don't know," she said.

"I have waited so long. And mother," he laughed lightly, "mother says she has waited twenty-five years! She loves you. Come to me," he ran on eagerly, encouraged by her silence and the drooping eyes. "The home is all ready for you. Everything in the world shall be yours. You'll not find that the three of us will not try to make come true."

She looked up at him a moment, her blue eyes warm with affection. In his pleading eyes she caught a suggestion of the eyes of his mother. It came to her like a shock that she—this other woman who was Robert's mother—would not have accepted this offering. It was a David and a David's life that she had chosen, and it was that which made her what she was.

"Robert," she said, with a quick intuitive flash she knew she would never call him "Bob." "I can't answer you to-night. It is only fair that I should, but I can't unless I say 'No.' I am not sure enough of myself to say 'Yes.'"

"I will wait," he cried. "Don't say 'No.'"

"Then good night," she said quickly, holding out her hand.

"Good night," he whispered. At the door, he turned.

"And a 'Merry Christmas' to you."

"Christmas?" she faltered. "Why this is Christmas eve!"

Marion stood peering out the window into the confusion of snow and darkness, as the time approached for David's arrival. At length she saw, as part of the mist itself, a form which somehow she knew was his long before she could clearly distinguish it.

"Are you all ready? You'll need to bundle up well, girl, because there isn't any carriage."

"I'm glad of it. It will do me good to walk."

"I am taking you to 'Le Petit Oiseau,'" he said as he assisted her from the car, "and not a dozen people outside the comfortable French in the city know of its existence. You will probably only get a dinner of herbs as compared with last night. But this is home to many who come here and home to me."

STOCKS AND BONDS.

The Day on Wall Street.
New York, April 6.—Prices of stocks opened lower today than last night on a large volume of trading with a general feeling among some of the less important issues. Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Reading declined 1/2 and Canadian Pacific a large fraction. National Lead rose 1/2 point.

Heavy buying of Rock Island stocks, which lifted the common 1 and the preferred 1/2 point. The general market, however, was not so strong. The advance of the grain carriers soon drove the principal stock lower than at the opening.

When the selling movement stopped business became very quiet, but the activity increased slightly later when prices rose. Chesapeake & Ohio, Pacific in good demand and advanced a point. Railroads from the lowest ran to a point in some of the weak features. Wisconsin Central improved 3/4, United States Paper preferred 2, American Telephone and Telegraph 1 1/2 and Central Leather preferred 1 point.

The tone of the market became spotty and irregular, individual stocks rising strongly while selling to realize continued in others. National Lead lifted 2 1/2, American Smelting 1 1/2, and Missouri Pacific and International Paper preferred 1 point. Lackawanna and Advance of 10. Amalgamated Copper and Westinghouse declined 1/2. Bonds were irregular.

Weakness again spread throughout the list with the bears paying particular attention to stocks that had not figured prominently in the morning decline. Reading lost 3/4, Northern Pacific 1 1/2, United States Steel 1 1/2, and Pennsylvania, New York Central, Atchafalpa and Erie 1. Lackawanna advanced 20 points in all. Norfolk & Western was rushed 10 points in the face of the general selling. The market closed irregular and active. The persistent pressure to realize increased the disposition of other holders to sell and made the bears bolder in attacking. The decline grew more precipitate, Chicago & Alton falling 3, Union Pacific and Reading 1 1/2, American Smelting preferred 1 1/2, Paul & Northern, Pennsylvania 1 1/2, covering by shorts rallied the late market. Lackawanna had advanced 30 points.

THE MONEY MARKET.

New York, April 6.—Money on call, easy, at 1 1/2c; ruling rate, 1 1/2c; closing bid, 1 1/2c; offered at 2 1/2c. Time loans, easy and dull; sixty days, 3 1/2c@3 1/2c; ninety days, 2 1/2c; six months, 3 1/2c@3 1/2c. Sterling exchange steady, actual business in bankers' bills at 48 1/2@48 1/2 for sixty day bills and at 48 1/2 for demand. Commercial bills, 45 1/2@45 1/2. Bar silver, 50 1/2; Mexican dollars, 44. Government bonds, steady; railroad bonds, irregular.

LOCAL MARKET EPITOME.

The rains of last night seemingly wiped the local produce market out of existence for the time being, at least. Not even the buyers were on hand to grasp the fact that the corn they were today with the result that the price tomorrow will begin just where they left off on Monday.

Said G. H. Crouse, of the commission house of G. H. Crouse & Co., this morning: "With this wet weather to-morrow there will be no market at all and even if it clears up the prospects are for a very light one. We expect prices to continue the same for several days and buyers are not anticipating any change in the way of heavy receipts until Friday or Saturday."

The local wheat market let out another notch today and is now quoted at 41 1/2 per bushel. The limit in the matter of prices is stretched every day.

OUTFITTERS FOR BOTH MEN AND BOYS

The Snappiest Stock in Spring Togs and at just the Price you want to pay

That's summing up in a few words our splendid readiness for the man who will buy his garments from this clothing house.

No matter what your ideas, no matter what your age, no matter your size or proportion, no matter what particular color, pattern or mode you may have in mind; no matter what price you intend to pay, you can come to us and secure perfect satisfaction and a considerable greater value than any store in Fort Wayne can give you.

The Wayne Paint and Wall Paper Co., 714 Barr Street.

We are the sole agents for the noted J. B. Pearce company's line of fine Wall Papers, of Columbus, Ohio, and the W. P. Nelson line of Chicago. Two of the finest lines that are made. We carry the entire line of samples. They cannot be beat any place.

Come in and let us show you, and then you will be convinced that there is none better made and we will save you at least 20% on the dollar. We do all kinds of painting, paper hanging, wall taping, everything in the decorating line. We also frame pictures. Come and get our figures. We do all work strictly first-class.

CITY BREVITIES.

David Crosbie, night clerk at the Baites hotel, is spending the day in Bluffton preparing to move his family to this city.

The regular meeting of the Allen County Medical society will be held this evening. Drs. L. T. Rawles, W. P. Wherry and E. E. Morgan comprise the program of speakers.

Mrs. Fred Goeglein, wife of a city letter carrier, has been removed from her home at 1624 Hillside avenue to the Lutheran hospital, where she will undergo medical treatment.

A big shipment of new writing desks for the Wayne hotel arrived in the city today and are being unpacked and put in shape for use. The workmen engaged in remodeling the hotel building are making remarkable progress in their work.

Members of the two local Ben Hur lodges are making efforts to land the next fraternal congress for Fort Wayne. The delegates to the Huntington congress on the 5th and 6th of May will bear instructions to let nothing stand in the way of bringing the meeting here.

W. L. Wilt and C. P. Cherry left Saturday evening for Philadelphia and Atlantic City. Mr. Wilt will remain at the latter place until he is able to resume his place at the head of the clerical department in the Pennsylvania motive power office. He is recuperating after a severe illness.

The directors of the Fort Wayne Hotel association Monday afternoon fixed $100,000 as the amount of insurance to be taken out on the Anthony hotel building with the rate 64 cents on the $100. The insurance will be placed in accordance with the request of the Newark Mutual Life Insurance company, which holds a $100,000 mortgage on the building. On the tax sheets the property will be placed at a value of $400,000.

The newly appointed house committee of the Elks' lodge is planning a grand ball and social evening for all the members of the lodge to be given at the hall on April 13. The house committee chosen by Exalted Ruler Maurice Niezer consists of the following: F. E. Boughner, chairman; George Ortleb, secretary; M. J. Belger, treasurer; William C. Schwan, Joseph Freiburger, J. H. Hoberack, William Ranke and Dr. Russell Viberg.

TO MEMORY OF THE DEAD

Living Members of Knights of Columbus Paid Tributes.

The memory of the deceased brothers was paid fitting tribute of love and regard by the living members of the Fort Wayne Council of the Knights of Columbus in the annual memorial services held Monday evening. The program was elaborately arranged and the talkers were particularly eloquent in their eulogies on the departed.

The memorial on Simon D. Brady and August Reusman, who died during the past year, by John G. Schultze was beautiful, and other deceased members were honored in addresses by Grand Knight W. J. Lennart, Thomas J. McLaughlin and Charles M. Niezer. Peter V. Zurbuch and Maurice Niezer sang several appropriate solos and other music was furnished by a quartet.

MERCHANTS HEARD OF BANKS.

S. M. Foster and Charles McCulloch Spoke at Meeting.

Methods employed in many of the local banks, characteristics of the banks, the causes and effects of the 1907 panic and many other questions to do with the banking business were discussed in an interesting manner by Samuel M. Foster and Charles McCulloch, presidents of the German-American and Hamilton National banks respectively, before the Retail Merchants' association at their regular meeting Monday evening in the Commercial club rooms. Mr. Foster told of the depositors and the borrowers as factors in the life of a bank and also advanced as a partial cause of the panic the fact that there was not enough money in the banks to pay the farmers when their "pay-day" came in the harvest time.

Both Mr. Foster and Mr. McCulloch argued strongly for the guaranty of bank deposits, declaring that it would not only protect the depositors but also that it would in many instances save the banks from the runs started by wild rumors of some sort. Wildcat banking schemes came in for a round scoring by the Hamilton bank president, who cited the instance when "Ice King" Morse endeavored to consolidate shipping interests valued at millions of dollars with a capital of $200,000 which he had borrowed.

The Merchants' association endorsed the public playground movement in this city.

John Wentzler, sr., will return to his home in Plymouth, Ind., tomorrow after a five months' stay with his son, John C. Wentzler, of Barr street.
